Roads Reported Dangerous from Ice and Snow

District highways remained glazed with snow and ice today following the first real taste of the approaching winter season.

Police described driving conditions as "extremely hazardous."

Even a bright sun, which appeared this morning, failed to improve conditions much by noon.

However the weather bureau predicted above-freezing temperatures for a short time later in the day. This warming period is expected to melt the ice from most roads.

It won't be "warm" very long, though. The temperature is expected to dip back into the low 20's tonight. Tomorrow there will be increasing cloudiness with the mercury rising to the mid-40s.

18 Recorded Here

Overnight, the temperature dipped to 18 in the district. By 7 a.m. this morning, it had warmed only to 22 degrees at U.S. Lock 4, Monessen.

About four inches of snow blanketed the district in a 24-hour period from Tuesday afternoon to yesterday afternoon.

The snowfall painted a Christmas-like setting. It also made roads slippery.

Last night, there was practically no auto traffic in the area. Motorists accepted the advice of police and left their cars in the garage.

Traffic was still lighter than usual this morning as many persons took public conveyances to work. Police reported no major accidents despite the treacherous driving conditions.

In eastern Pennsylvania, hardest hit by the storm, eight deaths were reported.

The eastern part of the state saw thousands of autos and trucks littering highways and making driving conditions on many secondary roads impossible and on main highways hazardous.

The snow depth ranged from two inches in Williamsport to four in Pittsburgh and Altoona, five inches in the Harrisburg area, and between six and 11 inches in the Philadelphia area.

State police at Butler, Greensburg, Washington and Punxsutawney reported roads icy in spots today, with similar conditions reported in Pittsburgh and most of Western Pennsylvania.

Coldest Day

Punxsutawney had its coldest day of the season — two below zero. Ridgway had an unofficial eight below.

Despite bad driving conditions, police said there were no more than the normal number of traffic accidents Wednesday night in the western areas.

At Harrisburg, officials reported airport traffic stalled because of snow-covered runways. Police said there were numerous auto accidents but none involving fatalities.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike reported it had up to 11 inches of snow on the eastern section. It gave the following road and weather summary this morning:

Bauer Reported in 'Fair' Condition

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Westmoreland County Judge Edward G. Bauer was reported in "fair" condition today at the Germantown Hospital here where he is recuperating from an attack suffered last Sunday.

Judge Bauer was visiting his son, Edward, a Philadelphia attorney, and his wife, in suburban Wynnewood when he was stricken and rushed to the hospital.

His son described his father's illness as a "coronary condition."

Denies Reports City to Protest Lock Construction

City Clerk Francis Crum today denied published reports that Monessen will object to construction plans of the U.S. Army Engineers for new locks and navigation dams on the Monongahela River.

"As far as I know, City Council has not discussed the matter, either formally or informally," Crum stated.

The proposed construction will raise the river pool level by six feet south of Lock 4, Monessen. A Pittsburgh newspaper reported today that City Council planned to protest the move.

One district community has already gone on record as opposing the new construction.

West Brownsville Borough Council announced yesterday that it intends to lodge a formal protest with the Army Engineers. Council feels the new pool level will increase the danger of floods.

Earlier this week, the Army Engineers revealed plans for a $28,244,000 lock-dam at Maxwell in Fayette County, a $21,125,000 lock-dam at Gray's Landing in Greene County and a $7,926,000 improvement project at Monessen.

The three new locks and dams will, in effect, raise the river level by six feet. This will result in some flooding outside of the normal river channel.

Objections may be filed with the Army Engineers up until Dec. 27.

$650 Damages in Auto Accident

Damages estimated at $650 resulted from an auto accident near Daisytown last night, state police at Belle Vernon barracks reported today.

Reports said Harry Wadsworth, 67, R. D., Daisytown, was attempting to go up a steep hill when his car skidded on the icy road and struck a parked car belonging to Louis Settie, also of R. D., Daisytown.

Fund 'Mop Up' Committee Meets

The "mop-up" committee of the Monessen Community Fund has started a last-minute drive.

Chairman John Kotch Jr. met with his committee last night and made assignments. Kotch said that all non-contributors will be contacted as well as those who have not given a "fair share" gift to the 1957 campaign.

At last reports, the fund collections in Monessen were still $4,000 short of reaching the goal of $29,975. The "mop up" committee hopes to erase this deficit.

McKee Is Possible Candidate

Westmoreland County Republican leaders may have found the man they are looking for to run for Congress in a special election next month.

He is County Commissioner Smith McKee Jr., of New Kensington.

Reached at the courthouse in Greensburg shortly after noon today, McKee acknowledged only that he is "seriously considering" being a candidate.

"I am discussing the matter carefully with state and county leaders of the party and I am being strongly urged to run," McKee said.

"There are several problems to be worked out, however, and I may not be able to reach a final decision until tonight or tomorrow morning."

The county GOP committee meets tomorrow night in Greensburg to select the party's nominee.

Good Vote-getter

County Democrats have already decided to give their nomination to State Sen. John H. Dent of Jeannette. The choice will be confirmed by the state executive committee in Harrisburg Monday.

McKee fits the description of a candidate for whom GOP leaders, including State Chairman George I. Bloom, have said they would go all-out.

The commissioner is a proven vote-getter. He was elected county treasurer in 1951 against the opposition of the powerful Democratic courthouse organization. And he polled a good vote two years ago when he was elected minority commissioner.

McKee knows politics and has the confidence of all or most of the Republican leaders throughout the county. In last month's election he served as campaign coordinator for the GOP ticket.

McKee's name came back into the picture yesterday after he had previously said he would not be a candidate. It is understood that it took a personal appeal from Bloom to get him to reconsider.

County Chairman Edwin A. Swink has expressed no personal preference as to a candidate but it is believed McKee would be acceptable to him.

Mayors on Problem

One of the "problems" to which McKee referred today is believed to be the potential candidacy of Herbert O. Morrison, Scottdale radio broadcaster.

Morrison, who was defeated twice by the late Rep. Augustine B. Kelley, whose recent death created the vacancy, is anxious to try again. But while he enjoys the friendship of nearly all Republican leaders, they feel he would not stand a chance against the veteran Dent.

However, it is possible that Morrison might let his name go before the committee tomorrow night and make a contest if McKee decides to run. Party leaders believe that would be unwise.

McKee and Morrison are understood to be discussing the situation in hope of avoiding a contest.

The victor in the Jan. 21 election will serve until Jan. 3, 1959. Either McKee or Dent, if elected to Congress, would be required to resign their present offices.

earth satellite Wednesday night.

But the crewmen will get a full day to iron out the kinks in their space machine and get some rest. J. Paul Walsh, deputy director of the Vanguard project, announced flatly early this morning that there would be no test during the day.

Walsh held a midnight press conference after Wednesday's scheduled firing of the Vanguard, a six-inch aluminum moon already operative in its nose, was postponed.

The originally scheduled getaway time was 4 p. m., but hour after hour the launching was set further back until finally it was called off.

Walsh said the Navy would ask the Air Force missile range today for a new firing schedule but the requested time would not be earlier than Friday.

Walsh Explains

Walsh told exactly what had happened to throw the plans out of kilter.

"Basically there were no major technical difficulties," he said, "but we were plagued by a series of minor things.

"What really did it to us was a lox (liquid oxygen) disconnect valve which allows us to continue to put in lox almost to the takeoff time. This is necessary because the lox continues to boil off.

"It is necessary just before the takeoff to disconnect the lox line and this valve was giving us trouble. We attempted to replace it with a spare but had difficulty aligning the spare.

"Meanwhile we reworked the other valve. But it continued to leak because the part of the valve connected to the tip had become

MHS Glee Club to Sing at Unveiling Of Nativity Scene

Workers will begin building a life-sized Nativity Scene on Fifth St. between Donner Ave. and Railroad Alley in Monessen on Saturday.

The project is being sponsored by the Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Rinard Woods, chairman of the Merchants holiday program, said that the Nativity Scene will be unveiled on Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m.

The Monessen High Glee Club, under the direction of Reah Seanor, will provide a musical background for the occasion. The story of the first Christmas will be narrated.

Local church groups have been invited to sing Christmas music at the Nativity Scene during the holiday season.

Russia Launches First Atomic Surface Vessel

MOSCOW (UP) — Russia today launched the world's first atomic surface vessel, the 16,000-ton icebreaker Lenin.

The ship was put into the water at Leningrad, the official Soviet News Agency Tass announced.

It said the ship would have a speed of 32 kilometers an hour (about 20 miles an hour) "in unobstructed waters."

"The ship will be easy to steer and will be capable of breaking ice two meters (six feet) thick," the announcement said.

The Lenin is the first atomic-powered surface vessel. However, the United States has two nuclear powered submarines, the Nautilus and the Sea Wolf.

The keel for the first U.S. atomic-powered surface vessel was laid last Monday at the Fore River shipyard of the Bethlehem Steel Corp., at Quincy, Mass. The vessel is not expected to be completed until 1961.

Tass said "over 500 factories helped manufacture the ship's machinery. The power of the ship's engines is estimated at 44,000 horsepower."

Many Hundreds Injured as Two Trains Collide

LONDON (UP) — Rescue workers braved the threat of sudden death from a train teetering overhead on a wrecked bridge today and brought out additional bodies from Britain's worst rail disaster in five years.

Transport Minister Harold Watkinson told the House of Commons in an emergency statement this morning that "so far as is known at present" 84 persons were killed when two commuter trains collided in thick fog and wrecked a bridge just as a third train was moving onto it Wednesday night.

He listed 193 known injured, "116 of them seriously." The 193 were seriously enough hurt to require hospitalization. Hundreds more of the estimated 2,000 persons aboard the three trains received first aid treatment at the scene. Many others reported for treatment at distant hospitals.

Watkinson said he has ordered a full government investigation into the cause of the accident.

Police and railway officials said no Americans were reported as casualties.

The death toll could rise above the 100 mark. A fire brigade official said between 12 and 30 bodies may still be trapped in a pancaked coach pinned under the fallen bridge. But railway and rescue authorities flatly refused to estimate a final toll.

"We will report each body as it is recovered from the wreckage," a British Railways official said. "We will not make guesses."

Fog Begins To Lift

Rescue work was suspended during the night because of a choking, sulphurous fog which shrouded the wreckage in impenetrable gloom. The fog began to lift this morning and a ghostly light let the daring rescue workers probe through the wreckage.

The first bodies brought out this morning were a young girl about eight years of age and two adults who apparently had thrown themselves across her in a futile act of protection. Rescue workers said they saw several other bodies jammed in the wreckage.

The crash occurred at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the height of London's rush hour when trains were jammed with commuters hurrying home and with early Christmas shoppers whose ripped parcels strew toys among the wreckage.

Tragic Scene Described

One boy of about five lay dead in the wreckage still clutching a toy drum. Near him lay a dead woman, her knitting needles still in her hands, an unfinished Christmas present torn and ravelled at her feet.

A steam train, its engineer blinded by the fog, slammed into an electric train which had halted because even its brilliant headlight could not lift the blackness of the early December evening.

A blue electric flash lighted up the fog and then there was darkness.

Above the scene, just entering a bridge, a third train left the tracks with a jolt that added deadly wreckage from the bridge to the wreckage of the splintered cars.

One of the trains had 11 coaches, another 10 and the third eight. Normally each coach would carry about 60 persons. Wednesday there were scores of standees.

The fog, worst of the season,

Grand Jury to Begin Probe of Hoodlum Meeting

OWEGO, N.Y. (UP)—A special grand jury will be convened "as soon as possible" to begin a full-scale investigation of the recent meeting of 65 hoodlums at Apalachin.

A joint statement issued Wednesday night by acting state investigations commissioner Arthur L. Reuter and Tioga County Dist. Atty. George Boldman said that "as soon as organization and other details can be effected" the special grand jury will be empaneled.

Boldman said Reuter had agreed to place all the facilities of his office at the disposal of county authorities in the investigation.

The meeting at Apalachin was attended by some of the nation's most powerful mobsters. It was believed the conference was called in connection with the shooting of rackets overlord Albert Anastasia in a New York City barber shop Oct. 25.

Governor Harriman ordered a full-scale state police investigation into the gangland convention. Several other state agencies, including the state Parole Board, and the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue have been making inquiries into the activities of the hoodlums.

U.S. Attorney Paul W. Williams disclosed that his office had called for the tax returns of all those at the crime cartel convention. Nine of the 65 at the meeting had been under investigation by a special grand jury probing racketeering in the trucking and garment industries.

Baptist Pastor To Head National Church Council

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—The Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, pastor of the Delmar Baptist Church of St. Louis, today was elected to a three-year term as president of the National Council of Churches.

Dahlberg is the first Baptist to hold the highest elective office in U.S. Protestantism. He succeeds Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, a Presbyterian.

The 64-year-old St. Louis pastor was elected without opposition at the council's triennial general assembly, attended by 2,000 delegates from 30 member denominations.

Charles C. Parlin, prominent New York corporation lawyer and Methodist layman, was elected vice president of the council and vice-chairman of its governing board. He is the first layman to occupy the latter post.

The delegates chose 11 other vice presidents to serve for the coming three years. They are:

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, Washington, D.C. (Methodist); Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, Indianapolis, Ind. (Evangelical United Brethren); Dr. Virgil A. Sly, Indianapolis, (Disciples of Christ); Dr. Willard M. Wickizer, Indianapolis, (Disciples of Christ); Charles P. Taft, former mayor of

Says Merchants not Opposing Parking Ban

Most Monessen merchants do not oppose a parking ban on the north side of Donner Ave. between Fourth and Sixth Streets, according to a statement made today by Joseph Friedland, chairman of the Business Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Friedland said he wanted to correct the mistaken impression that the merchants were in favor of permanently restoring parking meters in the two-block area.

"We asked Council to restore the meters on a temporary basis because of the emergency parking situation created by the Schoonmaker Ave. improvement project," Friedland said.

"As a result of that work, about 60 parking spaces were lost in the downtown area. Our suggestion was a stop-gap measure to improve the parking situation."

Friedland said the merchants plan to reappraise the problem once parking is restored on Schoonmaker Ave.

The parking ban on the north side of Donner Ave. in the two block area was imposed on a 90-day trial basis earlier this year. However parking meters were restored on a temporary basis when merchants requested such action.

Yesterday Friedland made public a survey conducted by the Chamber of Commerce which indicated that an overwhelming percentage of Monessen residents favor the parking ban.

"That's about the way most of the merchants feel, too," said Friedland. "Our request to Council was made only because of the parking emergency."

Many Believed Killed In Georgia Explosion

VILLA RICA, Ga. (UP)—A terrific explosion ripped through downtown Villa Rica during the height of the Christmas shopping season today and police reported unofficially that 40 to 50 persons may have been trapped and killed in the wreckage.

Atlanta police gave the report of the estimated casualties in a broadcast to all cars to cooperate with rescue equipment passing through the city.

There was no way of telling what the final toll would be. Telephone lines were clogged to the little city 40 miles west of Atlanta astride the Birmingham - Atlanta highway.

One of the stores ripped apart was a 5 & 10 cent store where shoppers were purchasing Christmas toys and wrappings.

Police cars and ambulances sped into the town from all directions. Civil defense loaded first aid supplies into cars and rushed to Villa Rica from Atlanta.

Cause of the blast which could be heard for miles was undetermined. It was followed by fire that raged through the structures.

Calls for help soon jammed incoming highways with ambulances and other first aid units. Fire equipment was sent from several towns.

The State Highway Patrol in Atlanta reported that three buildings were "blown away."

"We are sending all the help we can assemble," the Highway Patrol spokesman said.

Ike Hoping to Balance Next Federal Budget

WASHINGTON (UP) — Republican Congressional leaders took an optimistic view today of the administration's chances of balancing the next federal budget despite planned increases in missile spending.

Their reports indicated President Eisenhower's aides are using a magnifying glass in an effort to find savings to offset the prospective budget increases. But no clear picture has yet emerged of what economies the administration will propose when it sends Congress next month the budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The balanced budget goal was emphasized by the White House and the GOP Congressional leaders who attended Wednesday's conference with President Eisenhower on his domestic legislative program for next year. The Congressional group was part of the larger bipartisan delegation which met with the President Tuesday to discuss defense and foreign policy.

Some of the GOP leaders were more dubious than others about prospects for saving enough to offset prospective rises in missile and space-age spending. But White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, who sat in on the meetings, said the President made it plain he is shooting for a balanced budget and believes it can be achieved if there is a will to do so.

It was disclosed after the Tuesday session the administration wants to spend about two billion dollars more in fiscal 1959, starting next July 1, than in the current fiscal year for missile development and a number of other defense programs to answer the Soviet space age challenge. Defense sources said afterward efforts will be made to find enough savings in other defense areas to offset about one billion dollars of this.

Much of Wednesday's discussion dealt directly and indirectly with the budget. Hagerty said "there was a feeling" the administration will not have to ask an increase in the present 275 billion dollar debt ceiling when Congress reconvenes.

He and Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) agreed a tax reduction next year is "highly unlikely." Knowland added he is also "very hopeful there will no tax increases."

Some of the Congressional group said there also was discussion of cutbacks or elimination of federal spending in public works, water pollution control, vocational education, disaster relief, urban renewal, the school lunch program and rural electrification.

The administration made clear Wednesday it wants Congress next year to continue its annual renewal of existing excise and corporate income tax rates. The automatic reduction provided for next June 30 in these levies would cost the treasury about three billion dollars a year.

No overall budget figure was discussed and no indication was given whether it will be above or below the 72 billion dollar spending estimate for this fiscal year.

Although he is still recovering from his mild stroke last week, the President presided during most of the day-long session.

About 245 children were trapped in their schools when buses became stalled and could not pick them up to take them home Wednesday.

At the Kemblesville High School near West Chester, 200 pupils were overnight guests with townspeople furnishing food and blankets.

At the Avon-Grove Elementary School 45 pupils stayed overnight with the school cafeteria providing food and nearby residents furnishing blankets.

A group of nearly 40 pupils of the West Chester Junior High School spent five hours in their school bus when it plunged into a ditch north of West Chester Wednesday afternoon. The bus finally was pulled onto the road by highway department rescue crews.

A similar accident stranded 40 pupils in two buses at Lewisville near Oxford, Pa.

The storm area which caused the snow has moved off the Delaware Coast, the weather bureau reported, but has left cold temperatures over the state generally in its wake.

The prediction for today was sunny and continued cold, with high temperatures rising into the middle or upper 30s except in the northwest section where it will be in the upper 20s.

Cold temperatures with clear skies will continue over the state tonight, with a low of 10 to 15 degrees in the north to the low 20s in the southern portions.

Friday's prediction calls for increasing afternoon cloudiness moving into western Pennsylvania with fair and sunny weather in the central and eastern portions. Some milder afternoon temperatures Friday, with highs in the upper 30s in the north to the low and mid-40s in the south portion.

County Undertaker In Tax Evasion

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A complaint charging Jay B. Peterson, 55, an undertaker at Youngwood, Westmoreland County, with income tax evasion was filed Wednesday before U.S. Commissioner Alex McNaugher.

Peterson must appear before the commissioner within five days to place a $1,000 bond.

The complaint alleged Peterson stated income of $5,403 in 1951, $9,791 in 1952 and a loss of $489 in 1953 when actually he should have stated income of $12,597 in 1951, $13,224 in 1952 and $4,011 in 1953.

Senate Racket Group Looking into Ambush

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee began what promised to be a lurid chapter in its ten-month study of labor and management malpractice today by calling for a first-hand account of a highway ambush during a Teamster organizing drive.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Ray Byrd, a non-union truck driver who was wounded but survived a 16-shot fusillade in August, 1956, and J. R. Pemberton, the Clinton, Tenn., trucking executive who was Byrd's employer, have been scheduled as opening day witnesses.

The committee was launching a new series of hearings on "labor violence" centered in Tennessee and spreading into six other states. Kennedy has said "the use of an organized goon squad of certain teamsters" is a key topic in the committee's inquiry.

Kennedy also listed Paul Andrews, head of the B&S Motor Lines in Nashville, as a lead-off witness in the 10-day series of hearings. Andrews, Kennedy said, will also be asked to tell about violence during a teamster organizing drive including another "shooting on the highway."

Both the shootings are numbered among the more than 150 "acts of violence" which Kennedy said will be the subject of testimony during the hearings. Those acts range from Byrd's serious gunshot wound to the use of syrup in gas tanks to sabotage trucks, he said.

As the hearings progress, Kennedy said he expects about 45 witnesses to testify.

Revenge Motive Suggested in Fayette Slaying

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Defense attorneys for Joseph Watreas, on trial for murder in the slaying of an elderly Masontown grocer, tried to establish Wednesday that the motive for the crime may have been revenge, and not robbery.

Alex Goldstein, counsel for Watreas, asked witness Nick Petrovich, former acting Masontown police chief, whether Watreas had been the only suspect in the July 29 slaying.

"Do you know whether one, two or more were suspected?" Goldstein asked.

Petrovich answered he did not know.

Goldstein then reminded the witness that the victim, Alvie Partridge, 81, had shot a teen-aged robber last year. He asked if friends of the young robber, Robert Dean, 17, Edenborn, might not have killed Partridge in revenge. Dean is an inmate at a state industrial school.

Petrovich again answered he did not know.

The prosecution, which has asked a first degree murder conviction with a penalty of death, has contended Watreas entered Partridge's grocery to rob him but became frightened after strangling him with a length of wire and fled without taking any money. A total of $126 was found in a cash register after the slaying.

Watreas, 29, a Masontown coal miner, left his wife and three children and eloped with another girl after the slaying. He was arrested in early August at Miami, Fla.

State Township Officials Want Change in Grants

HARRISBURG (UP)—Pennsylvania's township officials have urged revision of the formula for state grants to municipalities for road and bridge maintenance and improvements.

Officers of the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors Wednesday adopted a resolution calling for reimbursement from the Motor License Fund's gasoline tax revenues on the basis of 70 per cent on road mileage and 30 per cent on population.

The current apportionment is 60 per cent on mileage and 40 per cent population. The supervisors said second-class townships have the most road mileage in the state.

The group also criticized Gov. George M. Leader's veto of a bill passed by the 1957 Legislature which would have given voters of second-class townships the right to decide whether any of their territory should be annexed by neighboring communities.

AFL-CIO Delegates in Convention Opening; Teamsters Face Ouster

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., (UP)—The AFL-CIO begins its third year today apparently united on throwing out its largest affiliate, the Teamsters Union, on corruption charges.

About 1,200 delegates opened the federation's second convention this morning. The vast majority seemed willing to follow AFL-CIO President George Meany's advice to expel the teamsters.

Meany said Wednesday he would not advocate expulsion of the 1,500,000 - member truck union if James R. Hoffa, major target of AFL - CIO corruption charges, would step aside as president-elect.

Hoffa, now on trial on wiretapping charges in New York and defending a Washington court action to void his election has repeatedly refused to resign despite threats of ouster of his union.

The convention plans to vote on the teamsters' expulsion Friday afternoon.

Three Unions Face Ouster

Three other unions — possibly four—were tagged for ouster by the convention.

Meany said that two of the unions on the road to reform had taken a turn for the worse. He identified them as the United Textile Workers, with 40,000 members, and the Distillery Workers, with 25,000.

The 29-man Executive Council, in an all-day session Wednesday, suspended the Textile Union. Meany charged that two former officers who resigned under fire on corruption charges were still on the payroll as of last week.

He referred to Anthony F. Valante and Lloyd Klenert, former president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Despite the near-united front on corruption, the AFL-CIO was far from merged on the state and local level. AFL and CIO groups in 15 states and hundreds of communities had failed to merge by today's deadline.

However, the Executive Council Wednesday granted an indefinite extension of the deadline set at the time of the original AFL - CIO merger two years ago, saying it wanted to try to bring about voluntary mergers of state and local groups.

The still-feuding state organizations include most of the highly industrialized areas. They were New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, California, Florida, Oklahoma, Idaho and Kentucky.

Coed Assaulted In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A Mt. Mercy College coed was criminally assaulted and robbed in the Oakland district Wednesday night.

It was the third such attack in the area in a month, and police believed all three were perpetrated by one man.

The previous victims, a nurse and a Canonsburg girl employed at Carnegie Library, gave police descriptions similar to that provided by the college student.

The college girl told police the assailant choked her and threatrrrrrrr etaoinuldr hhs end her with death if she made an outcry. When he fled he took her purse containing four dollars.

Murphy Open House Held Last Night

The Monessen branch of G. C. Murphy Co. last night held open house for employes and their families. The annual event was in charge of John Fridinger, manager.

The manager said the purpose of "family night" is to give employes an opportunity to meet the families and friends of co-workers and also to make their Christmas gift selections during off-store hours.

Refreshments were served to over 400 persons. Door prizes were awarded.

NO WAGE RAISE — Richard J Gray (above), president of the AFL-CIO building trades department, advocated at the department's meeting in Atlantic City, N. J., that the 19 building trades unions declare a moratorium on wage increases for their 3,500,000 members in 1958 as way to check inflation.

stiff or 'frozen' on contact with the lox. Liquid oxygen has a temperature of 270 below zero, Fahrenheit.)

"Thus it would have been necessary to unload lox, allow a warm-up period for the valve, reload the lox and then take off."

Walsh said the crews were growing increasingly weary. Some had been working in the area since late Tuesday and it was considered unsafe for personnel to go through the entire process again.

Meanwhile, Walsh said, upper air currents which had been just below the maximum safe velocity for a launching increased strongly as the countdown dragged on. Later, he said, ground winds increased to the point where they were expected to exceed the 20 mile an hour maximum by the time the rocket could have been drained and reloaded.

"I cannot honestly say when the test can be resumed," Walsh said near the end of his briefing. "When we get our ducks in a row we'll ask when the schedule can be resumed."

Legislators In Transit Picture

HARRISBURG (UP)—Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom said today a special session of the Legislature in an attempt to settle the Pittsburgh transit strike should not be considered until all other means have been exhausted.

At the same time, Bloom rapped Gov. George M. Leader for his out-of-state speaking appearances and said the chief executive should get back to Pennsylvania and help Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh get the strike settled

"I think it would be in the best interest of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania if the governor could inconvenience himself a little and forget Florida and the west coast and skip back here to Pennsylvania," he said.

Bloom's comments were prompted by a request from a group of Allegheny County GOP legislators to the governor to call a special session for enactment of a compulsory arbitration law.

"Deeply Concerned"

"I can well understand the concern of the members of the Legislature over the crisis that has developed in Pittsburgh," Bloom said. "They are deeply concerned about the welfare of 1,670,000 people that live in Allegheny County. These people have been greatly inconvenienced and in many cases have suffered extreme hardship during nearly two months. The legislators realize that something must be done.

"A special session, of course, would be very expensive and I feel that every means possible should be exerted to bring this strike to an end by negotiation, if it can be done in this manner."

Both houses of the 1957 Legislature are controlled by Republicans.

The legislators, in a message to Gov. George M. Leader, called for the session to enact legislation "which will authorize compulsory arbitration of labor disputes affecting public transportation of passengers."

The lawmakers, in effect, asked for an amendment to a 1947 act specifying compulsory arbitration in labor disputes involving such utilities as electric and gas companies.

An act passed in Wisconsin, similar to the 1947 Pennsylvania act, was declared unconstitutional.

The Pennsylvania law, however, has never been challenged

Senator Frank Kopriver of Duquesne and the following representatives from Allegheny County signed the message:

Maurice H. Goldstein, Edwin C. Ewing, Lester E. Spray, Glenn E. Stuart, Samuel Jenkins, Dennis D Stevens, William P. H. Johnston, Willard F. Agnew Jr., Laurence V. Gibb, Raymond E. Wilt, Lee A. Donaldson Jr., George W. Cooper, John R. Haudenshield and Ronald L. Thompson.

All Dutch Consulates In Indonesia Closed; Nationals Expelled

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UP)—The Indonesian government today ordered all Dutch consulates throughout Indonesia closed down and the expulsion of the 50,000 to 60,000 Dutch nationals in the island republic.

The stern measures capped a week - long anti-Dutch campaign touched off by the long simmering dispute over West New Guinea, held by the Dutch.

Foreign Minister Raden Subandrio said in Paris Indonesia would break diplomatic relations with The Hague government unless The Netherlands made concessions on the disputed territory.

The foreign minister, enroute to Jakarta from New York, strongly hinted that Indonesia also might be "forced by popular pressure" to nationalize Dutch holdings valued at nearly $1,500,000,000

Seize Shipping Company

Subandrio said that "unless the Dutch government takes initiative for an early settlement. . .we will have to break off diplomatic relations." (Observers regarded the statement as a virtual ultimatum.)

The cabinet of Premier Djuanda also announced that Dutch enterprises seized by Indonesian employes earlier this week will be administered by the government. The official communique specifically named the KPM Royal Dutch Inter-Insular Shipping Co., the biggest shipping company in the islands.

The demand for the closure of the Dutch diplomatic consulates was made in a note from the Indonesian Foreign Ministry to Dutch Charge D-Affaires Hendrick Hasselman in Jakarta.

The expulsion order was announced by the Ministry of Justice.

To Be Three-Phase Plan

The Central Immigration Service announced a "three phase plan" had been formulated for the expulsion or repatriation of Dutch citizens from Indonesia.

It said "jobless" Dutch would leave in the first phase, and "middle class" Dutch in the second phase. In the final phase, the remainder of Dutch citizens in the islands would go.

Justice Minister Gustaaf Adolph Maengkom said the action was part of Indonesia's current "liberate West Irian" campaign. Indonesia claims the Dutch-held territory on the island of New Guinea.

Campaign Started Monday

The anti-Dutch campaign was inaugurated Monday with a ban on Dutch publications, cancellation of landing rights of the KLM Royal Dutch Airline and a 24-hour strike against all Dutch commercial enterprises.

A top Moslem political leader sharply rebuked his fellow Indonesians today for the actions taken against the Dutch.

Sjafruddin Prawiranegara, Bank of Indonesian governor, warned "disaster" could befall the nation if "flagrant violations" of the constitution were permitted to continue.

Sjafruddin is a leader of the power Masjumi Moslem Party.

U. S. Exports Up

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Census Bureau reported Wednesday that U.S. exports during October totaled $1,672,000,000, nine per cent higher than September but about the same as the previous October. Exports from January through October totaled $17,488,700,000, 13 per cent more than in the same period in 1956.

Five members of Boy Scout Troop 3 were presented with pins last night at the troop's annual Christmas banquet for parents at the Methodist Church.

Douglas Crusan received a tenderfoot badge; Billy Shepler, second class and William Hurrianko, Richard Olchak and Jim Cantoni, Star Scout pins.

Charles Beaumariage, troop committee chairman, was master of ceremonies. Alfred Halzelbaker, assistant chairman Arrowhead district and chairman of the advancement committee, spoke on "Parental Guidance — the Tie That Binds."

John Hurrianko, commander of Allison-Lescanac Post 1190, Veterans of Foreign Wars, sponsoring organization for Troop 3, accepted the Troop's 1958 charter from John Dragan, assistant Arrowhead district commissioner.

Hurrianko in turn presented Scoutmaster Ray Purks with a gift of a U.S. savings bond.

Movies were shown of Troop activities during the past summer, including the 50-mile hike to Camp Conestoga, bus trip to Valley Forge national encampment, Camp Conestoga camp and Pittsburgh Pirate baseball game.

Invocation was given by the Rev. LeRoy S. Cass, pastor of the Methodist Church.

Gifts were exchanged.

School Bond Issue Approved by State

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Internal Affairs Department has approved a $750,000 bond issue by the Shaler Twp. School District in Allegheny County.

The funds derived from the issue will be paid to the school district authority to pay a portion of the cost of building and furnishing a junior high school building on Scott Ave. in the township. The bonds will carry a 4 per cent interest rate.

State Undecided on Tabs for Five-year License Tag Program

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Revenue Department is still undecided whether to use aluminum tabs or reflectorized stickers on the new five-year license plates which will be issued to Pennsylvania motorists next year.

Still under consideration are the tabs which would be inserted in slots in the plate or stickers which would adhere to the license. Most states use the tabs but California has the renewal stickers.

The problem does not have to be solved immediately because the 1958 plates will be new ones and the tabs or stickers will be issued in succeeding years. However, next year's plates are the last new ones motorists will receive for five years.

The 1958 licenses will be made of aluminum and will be the same colors, reversed, as the 1957 plates—blue on a gold background. The six-by-12 inch size and the Pennsylvania keystone outline will be retained. Current licenses contain an expiration date but this will be omitted from the new ones. The issuing year, 1958, will be imprinted but this will be covered by the tabs in succeeding years.

Cites Durability Of Plates

Department officials are confident the plates will survive five-years of wear under normal conditions. They point out that the Highways Department has run successful tests and some states which issue the semi-permanent plate have had them last as long as eight years.

There will be no change in the system of issuing licenses except that in 1959 the motorist will receive the tab or sticker instead of the license plate. The department has estimated the savings in postage and cost of the plates at $1,250,000 over the next five years.

The five-year plates will mark the first major change in the state's registration system in the 51-year history of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

The Hard Way to Check Inflation

ONE OF THE most fruitless public discussions we have in this country concerns the responsibility of wages and-or prices for inflation. This is the kind of argument which nobody ever wins, in which nobody ever changes his mind and which has no discernible influence either way on the problem of inflation.

It looks as if we will be having another of the interminable rounds of this argument. Richard J. Gray, president of the AFL-CIO Building Trades Department, started it with a proposal that unions, as their contribution to checking inflation, forego wage increases during 1958. This, obviously on the theory that rising wages are partially responsible for rising prices and inflation.

But, of course, this is heresy among labor union leaders. They preach the gospel that wages have nothing to do with rising prices and that the wage increases which they seek for their members are intended either to protect the wage earner against prices which have already risen or to compensate him for increased output.

So now Mr. Gray is being denounced in labor circles for his apostasy. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, accuses Mr. Gray of having adopted the "big business" view of inflation, which is that rising prices are caused largely by rising wages.

It is an interesting development that this old argument, which traditionally has been carried on only between business and labor, should now be raging within the labor movement as an intramural exercise.

* * *

WE STILL maintain, however, that the argument is a fruitless one, that nobody is going to win it and that no minds are going to be changed.

But this is certainly not to deny that inflation is a grimly serious problem for the nation and one which ought to be giving deep concern to all of our economic groups.

Short of government control of wages and prices (a solution which nobody favors), however, we suspect that the real answer for inflation is to be found in the operation of the law of supply and demand.

Mr. Gray, for instance, undoubtedly realizes that if the cost of building homes goes much higher, the market for homes will shrink or disappear. And it won't make the slightest difference whether workers in the building trades have high wage rates or lower ones — they won't have any jobs.

We dislike to think that the problem of inflation might be solved in this painful way. Which is why we wish all segments of the economy, manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and wage earners, would accept a fair share of the responsibility for inflation and use the voluntary restraint necessary to check it.

If they don't, they can be quite sure that the law of supply and demand will do it the hard way. And some economists feel that the process has already started.

The Shoppers Speak

MONESSEN'S retail stores have acquired some useful information through a survey of local shoppers by the Chamber of Commerce. And the merchants are to be complimented for publishing the responses to the survey, even though some are not complimentary.

Most interesting is the consensus that parking difficulties have ceased to be a serious obstacle to shopping in downtown Monessen. The public likes the new off-street facilities and definitely approves of prohibiting parking on one side of Donner Ave. in order to allow a freer flow of traffic. A few misguided merchants managed recently to upset this arrangement for the Christmas season, but city officials say it will be restored again. We hope so.

The chief objections to shopping in downtown Monessen disclosed by the survey are too-limited merchandise selections, especially in a few lines, inadequately trained personnel and absence of such conveniences as air conditioning in some stores.

These are all matters with which the individual store owner or manager can deal effectively if he chooses to do so. And we hope many will — and promptly.

The survey shows plainly that too much retail business is going out of Monessen, principally to Pittsburgh. The answer is more stores and continuous attention to the needs and desires of shoppers, both in the district as a whole and in individual establishments.

Ike Decides To 'Muddle Through'

By WALTER LIPPMANN

A decision of great moment was taken in the White House last week. It was that once again, as on the two other occasions when the President was disabled, it will be possible for the government to muddle through somehow until the President has recovered. The hard issue, which was whether he should for the period of his convalescence delegate his powers, was avoided. Instead, the President and his intimate advisors decided that he would perform token actions symbolizing the activity of a President, such as signing a few official documents or attending meetings, while the real powers of the office were exercised by various individuals and committees.

Mr. Lippmann

The country has twice accepted this method of dealing with the disability of the President. It is not at all sure that the country will accept it this time, and there are signs that there is a big change in the public mood. It can perhaps be described by saying that in the past there was an overwhelming popular desire that Eisenhower should continue to be President of the United States. Now there is a mounting anxiety and insistence that somebody should be President of the United States.

Nation Drifting

The nation is deeply disturbed by a growing realization of the painful situation into which it has been allowed to drift. It will not long put up with the appearance of leadership. It will demand the reality, and it will be acutely conscious of the difference between acting and play-acting, between the formalities of power and the substance.

This does not mean that the country disbelieves the President's doctors or that it does not devoutly hope that he will have the full recovery which the medical bulletins indicate. It is that even before the President was stricken this time, the country had already become increasingly aware that he was a partial invalid in partial retirement, and that he was not equal to the full demands of his office. It is because his energies had already failed so much that his third illness is having such a deep effect on the public mind.

This is the hard truth of the matter, and the White House will best serve the country and the President himself by examining it with sympathy and with courage. If it is true, as I believe it is, that the country will not now accept token leadership, we shall by trying to muddle through be heading into a great political storm when Congress reconvenes.

Taking Risks

The Administration will be taking enormous risks if it comes to Congress with a budget, with legislation to implement its foreign policy, and with military plans which, though offered in the name of President Eisenhower, are known not to be genuinely his own. There will be a disorderly search for the men who are in fact responsible, and there are ominous signs that there will be appointed scapegoats from inside the White House.

The crucial probelm, which is created by the President's health, is that while he retains the responsibilities of his office, he is unable in any full and adequate sense to exercise the powers of his office. If the tactic of muddling through won't solve the problem, there is a choice between resignation and the procedure, unprecedented but indubitably legitimate under the Constitution, of delegating to the Vice President the powers and duties, but not the office, of the President.

There is in Washington a remarkable body of opinion which holds that all things considered — our situation in the world and the President's failing energy — the right course is for the President to resign. This cannot be ruled out as the eventual solution. But it is drastic and irrevocable, and there are considerations which warrant trying at first the moderate compromise of merely passing the powers temporarily to the Vice President.

Nixon Needs Time

One of these considerations is that if, as the nation devoutly hopes, the President makes a very good recovery, the country is entitled to have the President which it elected. Another consideration is that Mr. Nixon, whose position cannot be easy no matter what is done, might be better off if he were allowed some time to make his peace with the opposition and to gain the confidence of the country.

It is, of course, true that it will be trying and difficult for him to be the temporary Acting President while the elected President is still in office and living in the White House. But Mr. Nixon has shown the necessary tact and delicacy. On the other hand, as this is a period when critical decisions must be taken, it will be better to have them taken by him with legal power and legal responsibility, openly and with public accountability. In the meantime, the President, freed of responsibility and the worries that go with it, would probably have a better chance of a good recovery.

This solution, let it be said again before it is scorntully dismissed by Mr. Hagerty, is the one recommended last spring to the Congress by Attorney General Brownell and by President Eisenhower himself.

Merry-Go-Round—

Dr. Condon and Corning's 'Cone'

By DREW PEARSON

LOS ANGELES — One of the most important parts of our missile development is the nose cone. It must be strong enough to withstand a speed of several thousand miles an hour, yet light enough not to bog down the missile.

In the latter part of 1954, the man who did the pioneer work on missile noses, Dr. Edward U. Condon, drove from Corning, N. Y., to Washington in his station wagon to deliver a new nose cone to the Navy. The Navy, however, refused to accept it.

Mr. Pearson

It had called in Dr. Condon and asked him to put his inventive genius to work devising the new missile nose. It needed the nose badly. But now it refused to accept it.

Behind this paradoxical position was one of the most shameful chains of events in United States government. It illustrates why scientists were driven out of government and why the USA is so tragically behind Russia in science.

What happened was that Richard Nixon, as Congressman from California and member of the Un-American Activities Committee, had staged an investigation of Dr. Condon in 1947-48, when Condon was director of the Bureau of Standards in Washington. There was no accusation that Condon was a member of the Communist Party, only that his wife was gossipy, that they had attended a Yugoslav cocktail party, that he was guilty of association.

Sped H-bomb Development

Condon was one of the best men ever to head the Bureau of Standards, was credited by Dr. Edward Teller with shortening development of the H-bomb by one year. Yet Nixon, sitting on the powerful Un-American Activities Committee, investigated every sentence he ever uttered, checked on every important person he'd ever talked to.

Averell Harriman, then Secretary of Commerce and Condon's boss, defended him. Condon was cleared. But eventually, tired of being hit over the head by Nixon's investigation, he, like so many other scientists, decided to get out of government. He went to work for Corning Glass at Corning, N. Y.

To work for Corning, however, he had to clear another loyalty investigation, since Corning was handling government contracts. This was extremely thorough. Because of Nixon's earlier charges, the Eastern Regional Security Board took from July 1953 to 1954 to act, at which time it completely cleared Dr. Condon.

It was in July 1954, afte he was cleared, that the Navy asked him to go to work on the badly needed nose cone for missiles. And it was in October 1954 that the navy refused to accept it.

Thomas Hurt Navy Program

In between, here is what had happened. The same Nixon, now Vice President and campaigning in Montana for Republican candidates in the 1954 election, learned on Oct. 19 that Dr. Condon had been given a final security clearance. He picked up the phone and called Washington. Two days later, Oct. 21, Secretary of the Navy Charles Thomas removed Condon's security clearance.

The record on Condon was one foot high and weighed 10 pounds. It had taken a loyalty board of experts one year to study the record. But the Secretary of the Navy, after word from Nixon, acted in an hour. He could not possibly have studied the record.

In thus acting, he not only drove another valuable scientist away from a government project, but he hurt his own missile program.

For Thomas's subordinates, a day or two later, refused to accept the missile nose cone which Dr. Condon had rushed to completion and driven to Washington in his station wagon.

Condon argued with the Navy that he already knew the secret of the missile nose cone, since he himself had developed it. You can't put the egg back into the chicken, he said.

Cone Refused

It made no difference. Condon's security clearance had been removed, thanks to Nixon, and the Navy refused to accept the nose cone. Dr. Condon drove it back to Corning, N. Y.

Three weeks later, the Navy called Condon, sheepishly said they would take the missile nose cone, after all. As developed by Condon, the cones are now the basis for our present-day missiles.

Later, however, the Air Force blacklisted Corning Glass because Dr. Condon had no security clearance, and, rather than handicap his firm, he resigned. His boss, stanch Republican Amory Houghton, now made Ambassador to Paris by President Eisenhower, thought so highly of Condon that he put up $100,000 for his independent research. But Dr. Condon still is lost to government — thanks to the political terrorism of Vice President Nixon.

Nixon even made a speech in the 1954 campaign boasting how he had forced Condon's security clearance to be revoked.

"Start of "McCarthyism"

Nixon's role as a witch-hunter has been forgotten by many, and he, probably more than any other, would like to forget it. But here in California, his tactics against Democratic Congressman Jerry Voorhis of Pasadena are remembered as the first beginning of McCarthyism.

This was in 1946, four years before McCarthy made his first charge of 205 card-carrying Communists in the State Department. Nixon smeared Voorhis as a pro-Communist and won. He found it worked so well that he used the same smear on Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas and defeated her for the Senate in 1950. Joe McCarthy came out to help Nixon's campaign, watched the technique and a few months later applied Nixon's tactics on a nation-wide basis. It will take American science many years to catch up from the defeats suffered at the hands of Nixon and McCarthy.

Presidency not Really A Man-killing Job

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)— President Eisenhower's bouncy recovery from a mild stroke probably makes it all right to mention the fact that this business about the presidency being a man-killing job is mostly hokum.

Mr. Wilson

Six presidents have died in office, three of them by gunshot. The average age was 63 years, mighty close to the allotted three score and ten. The survival age after leaving office is around 14 years, as of now.

The man-killer myth is founded partly on the self-pity of some presidents during and after their terms of office. Your correspondent began observing presidents closely when Calvin Coolidge was in office and had a peek or two at Woodrow Wilson before that. He has seen presidents who were having their bad days or weeks. But so do golfers, ball players and plain working stiffs have bad days and weeks. Some of them die comparatively young.

FDR Needed Rest

FDR didn't look so good toward the last, but he was full of boom clear through his second term. Mr. Big was around considerably longer than most and sought a fourth nomination when he would have been better advised to seek hospital rest.

Counting the pay, the loose hours and fringe benefits, the presidency is not a bad job at all. Plenty of selfless patriots always are eyeing the White House. There isn't one among them who would be likely to grab for a job which really killed.

Presidents are not the only public officials who get to feeling sorry for themselves. Members of Congress get the blues, especially Senators, being generally older. Sometimes, when a Senator passes on you would think he had been taking all of his meals at his desk, and sleeping on it, to boot, to hear his colleagues tell it.

There hasn't been so much of that since Sen. Royal S. Copeland (D-N.Y.) departed. Copeland was a medical doctor. It was his custom to sound off considerably back in the 20's and 30's when a colleague died. It always was overwork, although in some instances it easily could have been bootleg liquor, over-eating or other over-indulgence.

A former Republican governor of Pennsylvania suggested to your correspondent in London, Eng., on Aug. 3, 1923 that the death of Warren Gamaliel Harding the previous day probably could be attributed to bad whisky. There is no evidence, however, that Harding ever had to cope with really bad hooch.

Copeland Could Act

Copeland held always that it was overwork that killed senators, and he would put on quite a show. He did it over the years and held his audiences until the day he proposed to do something about it. Copeland want ed to make Senate working conditions better.

To start, he wanted to knock out the wall back of the presiding officer, extending the Senate chamber through the marble room to an outside wall of glass.

"Let the sunlight in upon us," Copeland declaimed. "Let the sunlight in."

The late Sen. Claude Swanson (D-Va.) at once endorsed the project subject to solution of this problem which he put to Copeland:

"How will you compel the sun to shine in from the north?"

Have Children Changed Christmas Attitudes?

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) — "At this time of the year, just about this week, when I was young, one-third of the population began indulging in wish - making and dream-manufacturing."

Thus spoke Wilbur, our office grouch. Only this time he didn't seem so much grouchy as just plain wistful.

Which third is that, old boy?

"The little children, lame brain," said Wilbur. "We used to get stars in our little eyes and begin thinking about what the world owed us for Christmas."

You mean visions of sugar plums danced in your head, the way it says in the old poem about the night before Christmas?

"Never heard of a sugar plum," said Wilbur. "What danced in our heads were things like Flexible Fliers and model trains, skates and toys and baseball bats, and we wished and wished and wished so hard that some of the wishing sometimes came true. What's the matter with kids today, anyhow?"

Just Dream, Wilbur

Why nothing, Wilbur. What do you mean, what's the matter with them? They wish and dream just the way you did.

"I will bet you a pretty pfennig (he talks that way at times) that if you took a kid-in-the-street poll you'd find that today's organization child, if he dreams at all before Christmas, dreams not in terms of himself as an individual but . . ."

Wilbur, you had better halt right there, in mid - sermon, because you are getting a bit hard to digest. Organization child? Himself as an individual? Do you have to carry on that way in the middle of a busy office?

"What I am trying to thrust through your skull," said Wilbur, "is that in my day as a moppet we wished in terms of ourselves and what we—me, I, little Wilbur—was going to get for Christmas."

Selfish little rascal, weren't you?

"Completely," said Wilbur. "And here's the thing. Today, what with the sprawl of television across the country, kids are conscious of the group, of the organization of society, of their identification with the family — and what's good for the group is good for them."

Just what are you getting at, if anything?

Kids Different Today

"Simply this," said Wilbur. "Kids are losing their individuality. When I was a kid, each other kid was an individual."

Yeah, and one of them was a real character—namely, you.

"That I was," said Wilbur proudly. "Now, it seems to me from what I see, all the kids are beginning to merge into one mewing blah, a sort of pack, you know what I mean?"

I know what you mean and I also know you're crazy. You got any kids of your own, or in your family?

"No, but I got eyes," said Wilbur.

Well, you better get 'em changed, old man. You ain't even so far off base since you laughed at the rocket-to-the-moon boys. You get one child — just one — around you for a day and you'll learn what individualism is.

The Views of Others—

Breaking the Rackets

(From The New York Times)

Although it was conceived in a lather of anti-Harriman politics, the idea put forward by Republican Assemblymen to appoint a special rackets prosecutor and convene an extraordinary grand jury to investigate gangster operations has merit.

Official activity stemming from the mid-November meeting of unsavory characters in up-state Apalachin is now spread all over the lot. The Governor's Commissioner of Investigation, the Legislature's "Watchdog" Committee, District Attorneys of several counties, various state departments or agencies, the Federal Government, Police Departments — and who knows how many others? — are at work. The danger is, of course, that instead of much being accomplished by everybody getting into the act, nothing will.

The gangland convention was a disturbing symptom. It signified that these sixty or so men had common interests boding no good that drew them together. But if the police authorities of various jurisdictions had any evidence of wrong-doing to go on these racketeers were just as available to arrest and questioning before they met at Apalachin as they were afterward — perhaps more so. So the spasm of activity since Apalachin raises the question of what were the authorities doing before Apalachin, and why couldn't they have done before what they are now trying to do afterward.

The answe is that local authorities wherever they are — and state as well, for that matter — have either lacked the vigor, the diligence, the patience or the power to follow through with the effectiveness that the public interest requires in pursuit of the elusive underworld.

Will a special prosecutor, an extraordinary grand jury, a sufficient staff, adequate funds behind investigation do better? Well, only time will tell. But at least it is worth a courageous, tough-minded, single-minded attempt. It has the endorsement of the Attorney General, Louis J. Lefkowitz. It now has strong legislative backing.

Christmas Program For Woman's Club

The Rev. Ted V. Voorhees presented "Four Views of Santa Claus" to the members of the Monessen Woman's Club last night at the annual guest meeting held in the First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Mr. Voorhees, a former pastor of the First Methodist Church of Monessen, is now chaplain at Western State Penitentiary. He spoke in a humorous manner pointing out the pessimistic view of Santa, the view of prisoners on Santa; the view of children who look on Santa as their father and finally the view of people who play "Santa" and get the true Christmas spirit by Christian giving. He concluded his talk by telling the story of the origin of the legend of St. Nicholas.

Mrs. Albert Snyder, president, was in charge of the meeting, and the speaker was introduced by Mrs Samuel Pool, program chairman.

Also taking part in the program was the First Christian Church trio comprised of Mrs. Glenn Barnes, Mrs. Donald Ries and Mrs. John Wilding. They sang, "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer" and "There's A Song in the Air" acapella.

The Christmas presentation was enhanced by the setting provided by arrangements of evergreen and holly and tall red and white tapers in brass holders. A nativity scene was also arranged in the front of the room.

Mrs. Robert Swaney led in the club collect and the singing of the National Anthem to open the meeting. There was a candlelight ceremony in which the following women were welcomed into club membership: Mrs. David Dillon Sr., Mrs Jack Walters, Mrs. D. Bischitelli and Mrs. Richard Pemberton.

Mrs. Snyder announced that Mrs. W. Barton Waite, a member of the local club and Westmoreland County Federation art chairman, will present the program at a tea to be held on Saturday in the Fletcher room of the Presbyterian Church of Greensburg. Men and women guests may attend with the club members.

Announcement was also made of the next meeting to be held at the Civic Center on Jan. 8, when the Valley Art Club will present the program.

A holiday decorative motif was used in the setting of the tables where refreshments were served by the social committee headed by Mrs. William Read and including Mrs. Vernon H. Bowers, Mrs. Dale Cole, Mrs. Francis Crum, Mrs. Charles Daugherty, Mrs. Russell Dial, Mrs. Lorena Duvall, Mrs. J. J. Francis, Mrs. John A. Hart, Mrs. Lester Hawk, Mrs. R A. McWilliams, Mrs Harold Meybin, Mrs. Ralph E. Palmer Jr., Mrs. W. R. H. Patterson, and Mrs. Frank Shutterly.

Mrs. David Lewis, Mrs. Fred Campana, Mrs Charles Dow, Mrs. R. G. Fisher, Mrs. George Jones, Mrs. James Wilson, Mrs. Everett Vernaccini, Mrs. Robert Swaney and Ina Kline were hostesses in charge of decorating.

Monessen BPW Will Assist in Seal Campaign

Representatives of seven Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Westmoreland County including the Monessen Club, which was represented by Mrs. Jean B. Githens, met at the Easter Seal Treatment Center in Greensburg on Saturday afternoon.

The luncheon session was devoted to discussing the part the clubs will play in the Easter Seal campaign for funds to operate the out-patient treatment center for care of crippled children and adults.

The task of preparing the mail, which will go out early next year to families of Westmoreland County asking for assistance in making Easter Seal services available to all residents needing them, will be undertaken by the BPW Clubs throughout the county. Each group will prepare that portion of the mail needed for its own area.

The guests saw a movie, "I Am One," taken at the Franklin County Easter Seal Treatment Center, which is similar to the local county center.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Franklin Hockensmith, 1958 mail campaign chairman, Mrs. A. V. Crookston, past president of the society and Mrs. Alta Currie, executive secretary. All represented the Easter Seal Society.

Confraternity Of Holy Name Sets Two Events

Members of the Confraternity of Christian Mothers of the Most Holy Name of Jesus Church will receive Holy Communion in a body at the 9:15 a.m. mass on Sunday, Dec. 8. Immediately after the mass new members will be received into the arch confraternity. All members are invited to stay for the coffee hour in the church hall after mass.

The regular meeting of the confraternity has been announced for Wednesday, Dec. 11, in the church hall at 7:30. The important business session will feature the election of officers.

Plans will be completed for the annual Christmas party on Dec. 29 in the church hall. Reservations must be made with the chairmen, Mrs. Anna Musial and Mrs. Irene Kerestes by those who are planning to attend, as soon as possible.

Evening Club Plans Aid For Library

The December meeting of the Evening Woman's Club was held last night in the Methodist Church parlors. Due to the inclement weather the announced guest speaker for the Christmas meeting was unable to be present.

Mrs. Henry Furio, president, was in charge of the business meeting. It was decided that the organization would adopt a project of raising funds to aid the Monessen Public Library in some manner.

Routine reports were given, and the budget for the year as prepared by Margaret Russell, chairman and her committee, was adopted.

After the business meeting Christmas carols were sung under the direction of Reah Seanor, who also accompanied at the piano.

Refreshments were served from a festive Christmas table centered with a holiday floral arrangement and tall lighted tapers. A white linen cloth with a red runner enhanced the setting. Miss Leah Snead and Mrs. Furio poured.

Dispensing with the traditional gift exchange each member brought a toy for the Salvation Army. The gift wrapped packages will be distributed to needy families at Christmas.

The committee in charge of arranging the evening's activities was composed of Mary Breza, chairman, Helen Williams, Wilma Lander, Reah Seanor, Margaret Russell and Mrs. John Regan.

Hungarian Ladies Entertained at Christmas Party

A Christmas party was held Tuesday night by the Hungarian Ladies Auxiliary in the hall on Seneca St. The hall was decorated in a Christmas motif. Lucy Kasper was in charge of decorations.

A Christmas centerpiece graced the table, where a turkey dinner was served. After dinner gifts were exchanged. The officers also had a special gift exchange.

Theresa Nusser served as toastmaster. Christmas carols were sung with Minnie Sedlar playing the piano accompaniment.

Guest prizes were won by Mary Szabo, Lucy Kasper, Mildred Bizaha, Sally Wisyanski, Margaret Nusser, Barbara Chickovic and Margaret Wisyanski.

Games were played and prizes were won by Mary Lenart, Mary Szabo, Elizabeth Gansler, Susan Salay and Margaret Wisyanski.

In charge of the affair were Sally Wisyanski, chairman, Irene Wisyanski, Catherine Hazy, Theresa Nusser, Anna Matta, Wilma Dolinsky, Elizabeth Marineck and Barbara Fogel.

The next regular meeting will be held on Dec. 19.

St. Paul Class Is Entertained At Routine Meet

The regular December meeting of the Staunch and True Clas of St. Paul Lutheran Church was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. John Wawerchak, 113 Mohawk St.

During the business session donations were made to various organizations supported by the church.

Luncheon was served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Sue Sotak.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Thompson Frew, 1349 Wickerham Dr., Monongahela, on Jan. 2.

Club Members Entertained at Rudolph Home

Mary Ann and Alva Rudolph were hostesses to members of their five hundred club at their home on Highland Ave. Tuesday evening.

Two tables of cards were in play. Those winning high score awards were Joan Weibl and Norma Spadafore.

Names were exchanged for Christmas gifts to be given at the annual Christmas party.

Refreshments were served, and plans were made to meet on Dec. 17 at the home of Betty Ann Kucik of Pleasant Drive.

BIRTHS

A-1-C and Mrs. Donald Klochak, Whitman A. F. Base, Knob Noster, Mo., a son, eight pounds, 13 ounces, at 5:13 p. m., Nov. 30. The baby, who has been named Donald Matthew, was born at University Hospital, Medical Center, Columbia, Mo. Mrs. Klochak, the former Barbara Githens, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Githens of Belle Vernon They returned home on Wednesday after spending several days with their daughter and new grandson.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kurowski, Monessen, a son, eight pounds, nine ounces, Dec. 3, at 11:14 p. m., in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Sorority in Holiday Plans At Meeting

Eta Zeta Chapter 4735 of Beta Sigma Phi met last night at the Civic Center and began the evening's activities in ritualistic ceremonies.

The president, Mrs. Stephen Major, was in charge of the business session. The group planned to sing Christmas carols at the community nativity scene on Dec. 16. They will also carol at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital on Dec. 22. At that time the chapter will present a baby-tenda to the Children's Ward in the hospital.

The Christmas party will be held at the home of Claudia Koltash, Hillcrest Ave., on Dec. 18. A special Christmas program will be presented by the program committee. There will be an exchange of gifts and entertainment arranged by the social committee.

It was decided to have a guest night on Feb. 19. A program from the Celanese Corp. of America will be presented.

The cultural program was devoted to singing Christmas carols. A practice session will be held at the home of Sonya Anderchak on Sunday, Dec. 7, to prepare for the public song sessions.

Fayette County Auxiliary in Christmas Meet

Members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Fayette County Dental Society will have their Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. Edwin B. Fast, 97 Stockton Ave., Uniontown, next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

A musical program will be arranged for the evening's entertainment with Mrs. Emmett Brown in charge.

Co-hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. B.B. Pearlstein, Mrs. William Hustead, Mrs. Emmett Brown, Mrs. W.J. Tormay Jr. and Mrs. Anthony Krizner.

Mrs. M.A. Snyder is president of the group.

Quotarians Mark Yuletide

Members and guests attended the annual Christmas party held last night by the Monessen Quota Club at Johnson's. After the Quota Collect and pledge to the flag dinner was served at 6:30.

Tables were appointed in red and white with arrangements of holly and tall tapers. A decorated Christmas tree on the piano completed the holiday setting.

Tynne Hanninen was in charge of the program. She told the origin of seven of the most popular of Christmas carols. After each story Enid Gantner sang the carol. She was accompanied by Elsie Hrivnak.

The group also sang several carols.

There was a short business meeting with Elizabeth Vivian, president, in charge. Plans were made to distribute baskets to the families at Christmas. Betty Vincent will be chairman of this project.

The guest prize was awarded to Enid Gantner and other prizes were awarded to Elizabeth Fernetti, Lena Greco, Mim Friedland, Elizabeth Vivian, Marie Odbert, Audrey Eberley.

Gifts were exchanged among the members.

In charge of the affair were Lena Falbo, Tyyne Hanninen, Marion Cubbage, Dolly Lucas, Barney Greco, Mim Friedland and Bessie Preston.

This was the only meeting planned for the club during the month of December. The next session will be held the first Wednesday of January and announcement will be made concerning this session.

Bell-Monette Club Members Hold Party

Christmas carols playing throughout the house greeted the members of the Bell-Monette Club when they arrived at the home of Mrs. Michael Pello of Speer St., Belle Vernon, last night for the annual Christmas party.

For the occasion the recreation room of the home was transformed into a gay holiday setting with tall lighted tapers, holly and other appointments. Holiday decorations decorated the tables for the serving of a chicken supper.

Gifts were exchanged by all the club members, and the remainder of the evening was spent in playing pinochle.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Arvo Isaho, Mrs. Alvin Bost, Mrs. Raymond Swearer and Mrs. Wendel Carlson.

Mrs. Pello and Mrs. Carlson were on the committee in charge of the party.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Driesen of Belle Vernon on Wednesday, Jan. 8.

Rough Financial Year for Midgets

This was a rough year, financially, for the Monessen Midget Football League. The flu epidemic practically wiped out grid crowds, thereby keeping MFL concession stands idle at Memorial Stadium. As a result, the league is hard-pressed to meet its current bills . . . Fortunately the future looks brighter . . . Incidentally, tickets for that dinner at the NIPA club Sunday for Armand Niccolai, MHS grid mentor, who is also Midget commissioner here, may be obtained from Bud Roman at his sports shop here . . . We previously told you to contact Armand Mori but the popular 'Hound Faculty Manager has his hands full with MHS ticket duties, so contact Bud.

There's talk that a delegation of Rostraver Twp. residents plan to attend next Monday's School Board meeting to discuss the Leopard sports picture in general and football in particular . . . Jim Bush, Rostraver High's fine basketballer, is the son of School Director Henry Bush. He comes by his sports ability naturally. Jim's father was an all-around athlete at Monessen High . . . Speaking of Rostraver, this week's scheduled School Board meeting was called off when three directors went deer hunting.

District Hunters In 'Grand Slam'

Four district hunters and friends scored a grand slam the first day of deer season as all six downed bucks, an eight-pointer, a six-pointer, a five-pointer and three "spikers" . . . The deer were bagged in Bedford County . . . They also had two "almosts" on "big rack" kills . . . Included in the party were Howard Kelly and James Wagner of R. D. Belle Vernon, Charles Wagner of Donora, John Gaydos of Pricedale and Charles Appling and Jim Shaffer, Jr. of Bedford County . . . Ronald Pavlik, of Eldora, bagged a four point buck Monday while deer hunting in Warren County. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Helon of Chestnut St., Monessen . . . Herman Mihalik, ex-Monessen and Pitt gridder, also joined the list of successful hunters with a 6 point, 175 pound buck which he "got" sitting in a jeep 100 yards from the deer.

Add hunters getting a deer — Edwin Melenyzer, local mortician, who shot a seven-point buck at a camp site near Everett and Patsy Fronzaglio, of 1252 Highland Ave. a brother of Donora High's Wally Fronzaglio, center on the Dragon grid team, who downed a four-pointer in Forest County on the opening day of the season . . . When Nello Tineri missed the Junior Varsity cage game here last Friday night it mark-the first time in years Nello had not kept the Jayvee scorebook record. He was sitting in on the Army-Navy game Saturday and had to leave prior to the 'Hound game here Friday night.

Brennan Has Link With Valley

Among the many valley sports fans attending the Mon Valley Sports Writers' banquet for the Big Five Conference All-Stars next Wednesday night will be Mr. and Mrs. Silla Valdiserri, their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Valdiserri and a group of friends who will be on hand not only to hear Terry Brennan but to spend an evening with Roger Valdiserri, son and brother respectively of these mentioned above, who serves as Terry Brennan's secretary . . . While visiting him over the weekend at South Bend, "Mom and Dad" were informed Roger would attend . . . Others ordering ducats here were the local school officials, Chamber of Commerce for the senior gridders and Earl Dunkerly, Jr. . . . The Viaduct AC and a Blooming Mill crew also plan on attending the fete.

Brownsville Has New Coach; One Vet Back

Guy Bennett, a former Wampum High School and Geneva College cager, is guiding Brownsville High School's basketball team for the first time this season, succeeding Alex Barantovich, grid mentor there, who gave up the dual coaching role.

Bennett also has a new assistant in John Pringle.

The two new mentors have led their Brownie quint to an even split in two games, topping Redstone 71-65 and losing to Beth Joint by an overwhelming 83-48.

Bob Chuey, 6-1, the lone holdover, is the hub around whom Bennett is building his first edition. Chuey, a three-year vet is a top notch scorer, as his 27 points against Beth Joint will attest.

Expected to see action along with Chuey are Mike Carroll, Erman Hartman, Bob Pochek, Ed Bagley, Richard Dascenzo, Ron Ashford and Bill Hart.

Also expected to break into either the first five or at least make the traveling squad are Alan Sepsi, Ed Seddon and George Baker from the football squad.

Only 15 candidates reported for practice on the first day of drills and the seven gridders who turned out later only jumped the total to 22 hopefuls.

In fact, at a Rotary meeting in Brownsville last week, Bennett bewailed the lack of interest in basketball in this area He pointed out that the "spark" is not supplied in the lower school grades in the Brownsville area and therefore the interest is hard to build up in the higher grades with no strong cage "foundation."

Brownsville usually comes up with a middle-of-the-road team, not a title contender but always good enough to give the top teams trouble.

Biksey, Watts On Top in Construction

Construction League bowling found Doc Watts with the best single game mark of 187 and Chuck Biksey with the best three-game record of 498.

Also among the top scorers were Frank Stancato and Al Fazzoni.

The Vulcans won 3-0 over the Dandos to hold first place over the Freeports who lost to the Sharons 2-1.

Standings — Vulcans 26-13, Freeport 23-16, Sharons 19-20 and Dandos 12-27.

Snow Stops Pimlico

BALTIMORE, Md., (UP)—Snow, which blanketed most of the Eastern seaboard and forced postponement of Wednesday's racing program at Pimlico, also was responsible for calling off today's program. The two days will be made up at the end of the current season, which runs to Dec. 14.

Every year an estimated 100 thousand American children suffer eye injuries while playing games.

Rostraver At Bellmar Tomorrow

Rostraver travels to Marion Junior High's gym tomorrow night to battle Bellmar in the annual "grudge" battle between the two rivals.

Regardless of team records the two district foes seem to go at it "extra special" in this game.

Rostraver has split even in two games while Bellmar has lost its first two starts. Against a mutual foe, Elizabeth-Forward, the Canes dropped a decision while Rostraver topped the Warriors.

A 7 o'clock Jayvee game will precede tomorrow night's varsity tilt scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Junior High Fives In Cage Action

Junior high action in the district opens tonight with Vernon traveling to North Union in a 7:30 o'clock contest.

Tomorrow afternoon practically all of the area teams see action with Monessen hosting Clairton at 3 o'clock, Marion entertaining Redstone, Fallowfield at California, and Carroll at Ellsworth.

Charleroi opens with Centerville at home today.

Minors Vote on Changing Draft, Bonus Operations

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., (UP)—The minor league vote today on the possibility of changing the entire drafting and bonus structure of organized baseball, following two days of heated debate.

The big item is commissioner Ford Frick's proposal for an unrestrict draft that would allow the top clubs to draft a whole team, if they desired. Frick believes this would help the advancement of the players and at the same time take some of the "heat" off proposed anti-trust legislation.

The best guess is that the baseball men will stick with their present set-up on the Frick proposal, but may abandon the controversial bonus play that has been under fire for years. The Pacific Coast League is leading the battle against Frick's idea.

As the 56th annual convention neared the end of its sessions, it appeared that 27 leagues would operate in 1958 with about 190 cities competing in United States, Mexico and Canada. There were 28 leagues in 1957 and the lone casualty was the Class C Evangeline loop in Louisiana.

Steelers View Game Pictures

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers viewed films of previous games after snow cancelled their field practice Wednesday.

Coach Buddy Parker made use of the unexpected free time for some unscheduled critiques.

Pittsburgh meets the New York Giants Saturday in the Steelers' final game at Forbes Field this season. The game has been scheduled at 1 p.m. to permit fans to view it and also see the clash between Pitt and the University of Miami on television.

Parker divided the squad into offensive and defensive platoons for the showing of the movies, and clipped the films so that each platoon saw only the plays which pertained to it.

The Steelers lost to the Giants, 35-0, in their first game this season at Yankee Stadium.

Vilma Gagatko Sets New Croatian Mark

Vilma Gagatko rolled a 504 for a new Croatian Ladies Bowling League record in league action this week.

Jane Popovich and Elizabeth Hricko rolled over 400 to rank among the top scorers like Barbara Lucketich, Frances Gagatko, Nancy Penich and Kay Destefano who weren't far behind.

Standings — Popettes 32-10, Vilettes, 18-24, Bendettes 17-25 and Paulettes 17-25.

St. Cajetan Ladies Bowling Fete Tonight

Tonight at 6:30 the St. Cajetan's Ladies Bowling League will hold their annual banquet with St. Catherines and St. Margarets especially celebrating after their victories this week over SS. Lucy and Monica.

Top single game mark was rolled by E. Zimmaro with a 152-352 followed by Carrie Palm with a 125-346 and P. Singel's 354 three-game high. P. Bisceglia also rolled top scores.

Standings — St. Catherine 19-11, St. Lucy 14-16, St. Monica 16-14 and St. Margaret 14-16.

A single cod fish is capable of producing as many as nine million eggs.

Vernon Opens Tonite; Marion Jrs. Tomorrow

Vernon and Marion Junior Highs are ready to swing into action this week. Vernon getting its first taste of competition at North Union tonight, Marion tomorrow afternoon as host to Redstone Junior High.

A rundown of prospects at the two junior highs in the Bellmarette School system follows:

Marion

Marion Junior High, coached by Harry Muckle for the second year, will have only one returning veteran in the lineup when the Generals take the floor against Redstone Juniors tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Marion gym floor.

Ninth-grader Joe Ercegovich, a 5-4 holdover, is the only returning vet and also the only cager sure of starting for a squad of eight ninth grade candidates, eight eighth graders and five seventh graders.

Although Muckle is not exactly certain of his starting lineup but will probably make the other four choices from Steve Kovatch, 5-10, Alex Krill, 5-7, George Nucci, 5-9, Ray Swiantek, 5-6, and John Daniels, 5-7, all ninth graders.

The Marion mentor plans on using all his ninth graders until he finds the five who work best as a combination.

Small but Determined

Muckle tabs his team as small but with plenty of hustle and determination and a squad which will require experimenting during the exhibitors before the Section 3 opener at Vernon on January 10.

The exhibition card calls for home and home games with Redstone and Ellsworth the first two tilts at home Friday and next Tuesday afternoons with a California exhibition in mid-season. Other League foes in addition to Vernon are Perryopolis, Rostraver, and Caroll Township.

All Marion home games begin at 2:30 o'clock.

Last year the Generals posted a 9-5 overall mark, all the defeats coming in league play where a 5-5 record was recorded.

Muckle had planned on using Steve Comadena this season but a knee injury has sidelined him.

In addition to the ninth graders mentioned above Muckle also has two others, Bob Lackner, and David Field, playing in their last year. The eighth grade candidates are: Eugene Garner, 5-6, Richard Hough 5-5, Mike Richardson 5-3, Larry Green 4-8, Alan Rocca 4-9, Jim Randall 5-3, Brian Dolfi 5-4 and John Butler 5-2.

Seventh grader hopefuls are Chuck Trickett, 5-2, Barry Vanaman 5-0, Ron Nucci 5-4, P.J. Vesely 5-0, and Ron Eley 5-2.

James Batwinis, Comadena, Ed Dempsey and Denny Glover serve as the manager corps for the Mucklemen.

Slovak Home Is First in SLL

Ladies Auxiliary took over first place in the Slovak Ladies Bowling League this week with a 3-0 win over Christian Mothers while Slovak Home was blanking Holy Name by the same count.

Elsie Demchak led the scorers with a 145-396 card followed by Kathy Hornack, Lee Kolnek, Mary Sassak and Margaret Yanachik.

Standings — Ladies Auxiliary 25-11, Christian Mothers 24-12, Slovak Home 12-24, Holy Name 11-25.

Java, with an estimated population of 37 million persons, is the world's most heavily - populated island.

Vernon

Coach Kenny Clark of Vernon Junior High School greeted only two hold-over veterans when the 60 candidates reported for opening cage drills this season.

As he goes into tonight's exhibition opener at North Union at 7:30 o'clock he will name two other starters to go with Ron Feher and Daryle Ruby, the two holdovers, and Tom Johnston, a standout from Rostraver last season who has transferred to Vernon from five other candidates.

Leading the race for the other starting posts are Joe Lopez, Richard Osborne, Ken Spina, Fred Ambrose and Jay Mahoney. Ambrose and Mahoney are eighth graders, the other first string hopefuls are ninth graders.

Supporting the starters are Walter Nogy and John Beck, both in their final fling at junior high ball; Robert Zeli, Eugene Randall, Danny Hammerash and Michael Sylvester, eight graders and three newcomers, Albert Anthony, Joseph Walko, Kenny Price, all seventh graders.

Last year the Vernon five posted a 13-3 mark in one of Clark's finest seasons, losing a Section 3 title bid in a playoff tilt with Rostraver.

Following the North Union exhibition tonight, the Clarkmen have other pre-season exhibitions carded with Beth Joint and Monongahela, both afternoon contests and another 7:30 evening game with North Union on the Vernon court. Beth Joint is the home exhibition opener foe next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Jointers will be played again away on January 3 and then comes the Section 3 opener against arch-rival Marion, the other Junior High in the Bellmarette Joint School system. A mid-season clash with Monongahela completes the exhibition schedule.

Clark has enjoyed considerable success at Vernon and hopes the 1957-58 season will be no exception.

Panthers Fly To Miami Today

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pitt Panthers flew to Miami today for their televised game Saturday with the University of Miami in the Orange Bowl Stadium.

Coach John Michelosen's squad will conduct a final practice Friday in preparation for Pitt's final game of the season.

Both the Panthers and the Hurricanes go into the contest with a 4-5 record.

Coach Andy Gustafson's squad, in spite of its record, has posted a commendable yardage total. The Hurricanes have romped to 256.3 yards per game on the ground, while limiting their opponents to 103.3 yards.

Pitt graduate manager of athletics Frank Carver, before the team left, had a comment concerning the squad's natural desire to make the trip and escape Pittsburgh's cold weather.

"All of a sudden, everybody starts showing up for practice on time," Carver said.

Monessen High Cage Quint Plays Host to Johnstown Tomorrow

Johnnies Always Feature Strong Five; Show Easy Win Over Clearfield High

Coach Frank Janosik sent his Monessen High cagers through intensive drills today in preparation for a game with the Johnstown Johnnies tomorrow night, the third exhibition start of the season for the locals.

FRIDAY

Johnstown at Monessen
South at Scottdale
Beth Joint at Peters Twp.
Connellsville at Dunbar
Waynesburg at Jefferson
Uniontown at Monongahela
North Union at California
Point Marion at Perryopolis
Fairchance at St. John's
Rostraver at Bellmar
Charleroi at Homestead
Donora at Elizabeth

In the two previous starts the Greyhounds have looked "fair" to "not bad" against two strong foes, McKeesport and Greensburg.

Johnstown in its only start has defeated Clearfield, 55-28. Due to the geographical location of some of the schools on the Johnnie schedule like Clearfield it is difficult to get a true line on the team from such an exhibition tilt.

Johnstown always, however, comes up with a strong contender, usually winning its area title. The Johnnies do not compete in the WPIAL in basketball so usually play the District 7 (WPIAL) in one of the state championship playoff elimination games, representing District 6 of the PIAA.

Road Condition

Only reason ever advanced for not admitting the Johnnies to the WPIAL basketball alignment has been the unfavorable traveling conditions on the mountain roads there in winter. Johnstown competes in the WPIAL in football.

Janosik will probably name the same starters for Monessen with Joe Kurey and Bill Makinen at the forwards, Dick DiBiaso at center, Charlie Bill and Myron Sepitko at the guards unless George Murin and Carl Payne, who have impressed in the first two games, win starting nods.

Kurey, with considerable help from DiBiaso has been the spark-plug of the team and top point-getter. The locals seem to lack outside shooting and rebound strength.

Other games on tap in the area tomorrow night show Rostraver and Bellmar clashing at Marion Junior High gym in the annual "grude" tilt, Charleroi at Homestead, Elizabeth-Forward at Donora, Uniontown at Monongahela.

Charles Town May Open On January 4

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (UP)—If present plans to open racing at Charles Town on Jan. 4 materialize, it will mark the earliest opening in history for thorough bred racing in the east.

The West Virginia Racing Commission, which already has approved dates applications by Wheeling Downs and Waterford Park for their meetings next year, said that no request for dates had been received from Charles Town, probably because of the death of owner A. J. Boyle. But in working out dates for the state's other two tracks the commission left the Jan. 4 starting date available to Charles Town.

A formal application is expected to be filed by Charles Town within a few days. Commission action is tantamount to automatic approval. Under present plans the commission has worked out two meetings for the track—the first to run 35 days from Saturday, Jan. 4, through Wednesday, Feb. 12, and the second to run 56 days from Saturday, June 28, through Monday, Sept. 1.

Charles Town opened the eastern season in 1957 on Jan. 26.

Kerr High Scorer In St. John's Loop

Top score in the St. John's Bowling League goes to A. M. Kerr this week with a 162-432 card as the Dackos and Kerrs posted wins.

Other top scorers were J. Fedarko, K. Joseph and B. Koawl.

Standings — Kerr 22-14, Dacko 21-15, Joseph 16-20, Costello 13-23.

Waynesburg, CSTC In Cage Contests

Waynesburg College and California State Teachers College resume hardwood activity tonight with the Yellow Jackets entertaining National Aggies and the Vulcans appearing at West Liberty.

The Jackets will be shooting for their second win after spilling Frostburg, 66-64, in their Tuesday night tidliter.

California will be trying for its first victory after bowing to Wash-Jeff Monday night.

DiGioia, Santora Top St. Leonard's

Loyola and Georgetown copped wins in abbreviated St. Cajetan's League action this week, over Fordham and Niagara.

Anthony DiGioia had the top single game of 200 and Patsy Santora the best three-game mark of 437.

Other high point-makers were Walter Labeka and Joe Reda.

Standings — Fordham 17-19, Georgetown 16-20, St. Vincent 15-21 and Villanova 13-23.

Where Are They Now?

By United Press

LUKE APPLING

Luke Appling, for 20 years a shortstop for the Chicago White Sox, was known as "old aches and pains" — the worse he felt the better he hit. In 1936, he felt so "poorly" he led the American League with .388, which still stands as an all-time mark for this club. Between 1930 and 1950, Luke also set a major league record by playing 2,218 games at short.

Whatever happened to Luke Appling? He runs an appliance store in Atlanta, Ga., and keeps his hand in baseball by helping a program for kiddie ball players.

BYRON (WHIZZER) WHITE

In the days when Colorado was struggling for football recognition, Byron (Whizzer) White provided a tremendous boost by winning All-America honors in 1937 and setting a national rushing record of 1,121 yards in '38. He was brilliant in the class room, too, and became a Rhodes scholar. Later, he played three seasons in the tough National Football League with Pittsburgh and Detroit, winning more acclaim.

Whatever happened to Whizzer White? Today he's a successful attorney in Denver, married and the father of a 10-year-old future halfback.

Cotton Tilt Seen Last for Navy

NEW YORK (UP)—Capt. Slade Cutter, director of athletics at the U. S. Naval Academy, said today that the Cotton Bowl meeting with Rice next Jan. 1 "probably will be our last appearance in a post-season bowl for some time."

Capt. Cutter said "special circumstances" caused Navy to accept bowl bids in 1954 and this year but pointed to a "long-standing policy at the Academy not to participate in post-season games." He said such appearances interfere with the heavy academic schedule at Annapolis.

Capt. Cutter said he learned after assuming his duties last August that the Navy players had been promised they could go to a bowl game if they had a creditable record and beat Army this year. Navy complied with both conditions by compiling an 8-1-1 record and beating Army, 14-0.

Cigar Bowl Out

TAMPA, Fla. (UP)—The Cigar Bowl post season game scheduled for Dec. 28 has been cancelled because officials could not attract satisfactory opponents. Morton Annis, president of the Cigar Bowl Assn. announced the cancellation after several teams including Texas Christian and Mississippi State turned down bids.

College Grid Attendance Up Sharply in East

NEW YORK (UP)—The greatest upsurge of college football in the east was registered in the East and the average attendance at games throughout the nation increased slightly in 1957

Those were among the findings today of a United Press survey on how football fared during the season just finished at 121 colleges in every section of the country The Midwest, as usual had the greatest total attendance and Michigan and Ohio State were the leading schools

The total attendance at all games declined 0 16 per cent from 13 953,238 in 1956 to 13,931 295 this year

But this was merely a 'mirage" loss, because the same schools played five less games this year than last year — 580 against 585 On the "true" measure of average attendance per game, the figures showed an increase of 007 per cent—from 23 852 last year to 24,019 this year Five more games at the same average would have boosted the total for 1957 to 14,051,390

Washington State Gridder Tops in Total Offense

NEW YORK (UP)—Bobby Newman a 21 year old junior from El Cerrito, Calif, who headed Washington State's wide-open attack is the nation's total offense leader for major colleges

The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau's final statistics of the year showed that Newman gained 1 444 yards in 10 games That gave him a 19 - yard edge over Bill Austin of Rutgers who played in only nine games but handled the ball 10 more times than Newman

All but 53 of Newman's yards gained resulted from passes — no surprise since he placed second as a sophomore last season to John Brodie in the race for major college passing honors

Ken Ford of Hardin - Simmons who completed 22 of 35 passes against New Mexico A&M last Thursday, won the passing title this year Ford completed 115 of 205 attempts for a 561 average 1 254 yards and 14 touchdowns Newman ranked second in this department again this year with Lee Grosscup of Utah third

Stuart Vaughan of Utah won the passing receiving title with 53 catches 756 yards and five touchdowns Gary Kapp of Utah State was second with 45 catches, 633 yards and four touchdowns

Harness Events

YONKERS N Y, (UP) — Yonkers Raceway offers harness racing's two richest two-year - old events next year as part of its 1958 schedule They are the $50 - 000 added Hilltop Trot and the $50 000 added Empire Pace, both to be run off sometime in September The track opens on Aug 1

Tartans 'Scare' Dukes

By UNITED PRESS

The Pitt Panthers, spurting from a 2-0 deficit, took an early lead and never relinquished it to post a 72-62 basketball victory over Michigan Wednesday night at Pitt's Memorial Field House

Don Hennon scored 26 points to lead Pitt to its opening victory The 5-8 junior forward, named to the small All-America team last year, scored eight times from the field and connected on 10 of his 12 free throws

Michigan's 5-11 senior guard Billy Wright was high scorer for the Ann Arbor quintet

In another featured game involving Western Pennsylvania teams Wednesday night, Duquesne University romped to a 72-58 victory over Carnegie Tech at Skibo Gym

The Dukes gave Tech a 9 0 margin at the opening of play, but then took command to build up a 34-28 lead at halftime Ed Binder led the Bluffites with 15 points followed by teammate Bob De Palma with 12 Tom Mueller was high scorer for Tech with 12

Iowa's Karras Voted Nation's Top Lineman

NEW YORK (UP)—Alex Karras, Iowa's hard - crashing tackle who reduced his way to stardom was named today by the United Press as college football's 'Lineman of the Year' for 1957

The 220-pound steel - tough big fellow from the steel city of Gary, Ind, was an overwhelming choice of sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation who took part in the voting. Karras received 86 votes to 27 for runnerup Bill Krisher of Oklahoma

For Karras, who has been picked in the National Football League player draft by the Detroit Lions and also has an offer from Winnipeg in Canadian pro football the honor caps a brilliant career that really got rolling when he took off weight

Here are examples of Karras' outstanding defensive plays

Against Michigan he crashed through and spilled passer Jim Van Pelt so hard that the ball squirted loose, Iowa recovered on the Michigan eight and scored a key TD in a 21-21 tie

Against Northwestern he jarred loose another fumble that Iowa recovered and set up the only score in a 6-0 game

Against Washington State one of his best games he opened holes for two touchdown thrusts and crashed through to steal the ball from Bob Newman and set up the winning score in a 20-14 game

End Jimmy Phillips of Auburn had 25 votes in the balloting to press Krisher for second place Lou Michaels of Kentucky was fourth with 20 points and center Dan Currie of Michigan State fifth with 15

'Half-a-Bob' Cousy Paces Celtic Win

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Navy tackle Bob Reifsnyder, voted to the United Press All - American second team, was a unanimous choice today for the Maxwell Memorial Football award as college player of the year

The 20-year-old native of Rockville Centre N Y, who played perhaps the best game of his career against Army last Saturday will receive the award at a dinner here Jan 14

Others who were in the running for the award were Walt Kowalczyk of Michigan State and Lee Grosscup of Utah Kowalczyk was named to the U. P All-America first team backfield and Grosscup to the second team.

Active White Sox Have More Deals 'Cooking'; Seek Power

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo, (UP)—"We've got two more deals cooking," claim the suddenly active Chicago White Sox, who now are trying to get back some of the batting power they gave up to produce "the best pitching staff in the American League'

'Within the past two days the White Sox have added pitchers Early Wynn and Ray Moore to their staff in separate deals with Cleveland and Baltimore

To get Wynn and Al Smith from the Indians Wednesday, the White Sox were forced to give up their big stick man, Minnie Minoso along with utility infielder Fred Hatfield And in the Moore deal with the Orioles they gave up slugging Larry Doby.

Great Pitching Staff

Frank Lane of Cleveland who made Wednesday's deal with the White Sox said Chicago now has a pitching staff quite capable of winning the pennant

"I hope this deal alerts the Yankees" said Lane who is still trying to do business with them for a second baseman, preferably Bobby Richardson

Wednesday's deal was the first one Lane made since taking over as Cleveland general manager three weeks ago Like the White Sox, he said he too, was trying to swing a pair of deals on two other fronts

Seeking Several Deals

One of his projected deals is with Washington, presumably for second baseman Pete Runnels and the other is the one he still has hopes for with the Yanks The Yankees want Ray Narleski and Lane would like either Don (Perfect Game) Larsen or Johnny Kucks along with Richardson

Meanwhile, major league player representatives are asking that the present major league salary minimum be increased to $7 000 per season and that bonus players should not be counted in the 25-player limit

The representatives headed by National League spokesman Robin Roberts of the Phillies and American League spokesman Eddie Yost discussed the subjects at a meeting here Wednesday

Joey Brown TKOs Lopes, Defends Lightweight Title

CHICAGO (UP)—Watchful waiting proved the payoff for Lightweight champion Joe Brown when he scored his third knockout in as many defenses of the 135-pound world championship

He put full power into no more than four punches against challenger Joey Lopes of Sacramento Calif, but three of them produced knockdowns and the fourth set up the pretender for a finishing blow prevented when referee Joe White gave Brown an 11th round TKO triumph Wednesday night

Brown, 31, was a 3-to-1 favorite to retain his championship won Aug 24, 1956, from Wallace (Bud) Smith, when he stepped into the ring against Lopes

The victory brought Brown $15,840 of which $12,000 was from television Lopes collected $9 920

It was Brown's 29th knockout in 92 pro fights, of which he has won 67 It was the 14th loss for Lopes in 58 battles

New HC Captain

Bear Kill on Opening Day Proves Only Fair

On Monday, November 25, the first day of the current one week bear season 147 legal bears were bagged by hunters in Pennsylvania according to the best available figures obtained through field officers of the Game Commission This was only a fairly large harvest for opening day when compared to other recent seasons

Most of these big game animals were taken in the wooded, mountainous northern counties Twenty-two were bagged in the northwest, 83 in the northcentral and 38 in the northeast. In the southcentral sector 4 legal bears were taken The southeast and southwest corners of the Keystone State reported "none".

These two factors probably were largely responsible for the moderate bea kill 1 Lack of snow 2 Less hunters than usual afield on the first day of season On the average the hunting pressure in the northwest in the northcentral and in the northeast counties was considerably less, compared to opening day 1956

One hunter fatality occurred in Union County, none elsewhere The lone victim stepped in front of a hunting companion who was in the act of unloading his rifle For some unknown reason the gun was discharged No other injuries due to gun fire was reported

Across the state the hunter conduct was described for the most part, as good But Game Protectors apprehended, among others, three persons who could not resist shooting wild turkeys while hunting bears For some unfathomable reason deer also were killed on the 25th Ten cub bears were unlawfully killed on opening day In several instances an erring hunter took a cub to a nearby Game Protector, admitted his mistake and eased his conscience by paying one-fourth the full penalty. Going by past records the wildlife officers, in performing investigations, will bring most of the other cub killers to justice

Most bear seasons in Pennsylvania find 150 000 to 250 000 hunters afield on the first day, less the second day and a quick drop-off for the remainder of the season until Saturday On the last day a large number of nimrods customarily make a final try for a bruin But, it is conjectured, this season will not run true to form With Thanksgiving Day coming in the bear season for the first time in several years it is thought that many hunters who were forced to pass up the "opener", or who planned to hunt bears at the end of the season and stay over for a buck hunt the early part of next week, will try for a black bear this Friday and Saturday, the final days of the season.

If this occurs, particularly if the ground is snow-covered the total 1957 bear kill may be increased beyond the normal estimate

Holds Christmas Party Yesterday

Covers were laid for eight members and one guest when the members of the Patriotic Order of America met for a Christmas party yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nora Pro in Charleroi.

Table appointments were in a Christmas motif, and the festivities after the serving of a turkey dinner took place around a decorated Christmas tree in the living room. Mrs. Pro and Mrs. Jennie Bowen served the meal.

Reba Robertson won the guest prize and games were played. Della Forsyth was the prize winner.

Mrs. Pro acted as "Santa Claus" for the distribution of the gifts.

Mrs. Bertha MacDonald, president, was in charge of a brief business session during which plans were made for a grocery party at the next meeting on Jan. 8 at the MacDonald home.

Edna Marston Class To Meet Tuesday

The December meeting of the Edna Marston Class of the First Baptist Church will be held next Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Boyce on Market St. The session has been delayed one week due to the evangelistic services now being conducted in the church.

It will be the annual Christmas party along with the business session.

Model Speaks to Members of Tuesday Evening Civic Club

Eleanor Schano, Pittsburgh model and television personality, spoke to members of the Tuesday Evening Civic Club at a meeting held in the American Legion Home.

Selecting as her subject, "Charm," Miss Schano told of the many personal habits which become aids to good grooming and help a person to become charming in appearance and personality.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. John Thompson, a member of the program committee.

Mrs. Shelby D. Ferguson, president, conducted the session, and Mrs. James Price offered the opening prayer.

Routine reports were given, and Mrs. Homer Zucconi outlined the plans for sponsoring the Cub Scout Pack. The initial organization meeting was announced for Dec. 11 at Bellmar High School. All arrangements for this session are complete, and two additional meetings will be planned.

Mrs. Leonard Glasgow reported on the current activities of the ways and means committee.

Mrs. Ferguson announced plans for the annual Christmas party at which the members will entertain their children. It will be held on Dec. 17 at the Legion Home at 7 o'clock instead of the usual 8 o'clock hour. A Bell Telephone Co. film will be shown and many other pre-holiday features will be planned for entertainment.

Instead of each member bringing a 50 cent gift to the next session, each will make a 50 cent contribution to Mrs. Thomas Johnston, chairman of the public welfare committee, who will then purchase articles needed for the welfare baskets the club distributes at Christmas time.

A contribution was voted to the Penny Art Fund of Westmoreland County.

Announcement was made of a pre-Christmas tea to be held Saturday afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church of Greensburg. It will be sponsored by the Westmoreland County Federation of Women's Clubs. The program will be presented by Mrs. W.B. Waite of Monessen and will feature a slide-story on the churches of the county.

Mrs. James McManus, civil defense chairman, gave a short talk on civil defense and distributed pamphlets concerning protection against an air raid.

A social hour followed the session and luncheon was served by Mrs. Donald Pender, Mrs. Paul Jesick, Mrs. Samuel K. Beall, Mrs. Joseph Lupori, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Joseph Daniel and Mrs. Ray Glover.

Guests present were Mrs. Joseph Senko, Mrs. Dorothy Dolfi, Belle Vernon; Wilma Lowether of Perryopolis and Mrs. Bernard Sarra, Fayette City.

---

Mrs. Charles Jenkins and son, Chuckie, of Henry St. have returned home after spending a few days with their daughter and sister, Marilyn Jenkins, who is employed as a reservation agent with Capitol Airlines in New York City. Miss Jenkins, who lives in Woodside, Long Island, N.Y., has just returned from a plane trip to visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Jenkins of St. Paul, Minn., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Callies of Milwaukee, Wis. Mrs. Callies is the former Betty Bankerd of Belle Vernon.

Woman's Club Holds Cooking Program Tuesday

"Cooking for Christmas" was the theme of the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Belle Vernon Woman's Club. About 30 club members and guests went to the West Penn Power Building in Charleroi for the cooking demonstration.

Mrs. Mary Stevenson, West Penn home service representative, conducted the school. She prepared many unusual holiday dishes describing the procedure and equipment used as she worked.

Afte the demonstration the food was served buffet fashion to the guests.

Brief talks were given by Fred Garvin, dealer representative of West Penn and J. Andrews, service representative of Montgomery Ward, who sponsored this program by providing the equipment shown and demonstrated.

Two guest prizes were awarded by Mr. Andrews to Mrs. Harold Ellis and Mrs. Evan Thomas.

Mrs. C. W. Bierwirth conducted a brief business session as club president. Announcement was made of the next meeting, which has been scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 14, instead of the first Tuesday of the month, regular meeting date. It will be a one o'clock luncheon in the First Christian Church. Mrs. James Swartz will be guest speaker and her subject will be "Emma Dean Anderson — A Woman of Destiny."

There was a collection taken among the members to be used for the Christmas welfare projects, providing baskets for the needy.

Hostesses for the Tuesday afternoon session were Mrs. Robert W. Lange Sr., Mrs. E. W. Harry and Mrs. J. D. Case.

New Financial System for Washington Twp. Supervisors

A complete new financial system is being set up by the Washington Township Board of Road Supervisors. At a meeting held on Monday evening Solicitor John E. Costello was instructed to prepare an ordinance designating the new system.

According to Charles Pabis, board secretary-treasurer, it was decided to lump the township indebtedness into one sum, and sell bonds in the needed amount rather than continue with individual accounts with various creditors.

Costello was instructed to prepare bonds of general obligation in the amount of $55,000 to be sold to any interested area bank or one of three investment companies. It was also requested that the secretary-treasurer fee be paid in the amount of $55,000 to be the amount paid off on the bonds each year rather than on the entire amount. Present plans call for paying off the entire issue in eight or 10 years.

Until now the supervisors were permitted to borrow in the amount of $25,000 without a general vote since the property assessment was about $1,250,000. Since the assessment has been increased to $3,500,000 the board is permitted to borrow up to $70,000 without a resident vote.

Debts of about $31,000 were being carried by the board, but the amount increased to $46,000 due to an extensive road improvement program in which the expense was shared by the township and Fayette County.

Attending the Monday evening meeting were Michael Mutich, who presided, Jerry Weiss, Pabis and Solicitor Costello.

It was reported that the members of the newly appointed Washington Township Planning Commission met Nov. 29 in the Fairhope fire hall. Another session was planned for Dec. 11, at the fire hall. This will be the organization meeting and officers will be elected. On this board are Steve Vesley, five years; Edward Bilsky, four years; William R. Davis, three years; Steve Frederick, two years and Joseph Druciak, one year.

Edward Heiseberg, executive director of the Fayette County Planning Commission, will be invited to attend the organization session.

A resolution was passed to take in five additional streets in the township, Hillman St., Axton Ave., Brown Dr., Sherwood Ave. extension and an unnamed street.

It was designed to change First, Second and Third avenues in Lynnwood to streets so they do not conflict with First, Second and Third avenues in Belle Vernon, since all are served by the Belle Vernon Post Office.

A note for $14,500 held by the Belle Vernon office of the Western Pennsylvania National Bank was renewed.

A financial report on the road repair program was approved by Fayette County.

The next meeting was set for Jan. 6, when reorganization will take place.

Christmas Party Held by Triad Scout Committee

The annual Christmas party was held by the Triad Neighborhood Girl Scout Committee at Central High School, Jefferson Township.

Members attended from Lynnwood, Fairhope and Jefferson Township.

A turkey dinner was served by the women of the Jefferson Township Presbyterian Church. Appointments were in a Christmas motif.

Dorothy Hawk, president, acted as hostess for the affair. After dinner prizes were awarded to Dorothy Rex, Justine Nogy and Theresa McCrory. Leona and Katherine Hough were in charge of the program which featured games and carol singing.

Others present were Peg DePaolo, Helene Winn, Helen Serwinski, Jay Paholsky, Agnes Helfer, Lois Taylor, Rose Parshall, Dorothy Bush, Eleanor Mason, Millie Russell, Mary Males, Minnie Miller, Elsie Adamec, Margaret Fedora, Marie Glotfelty, Mary Sedlak, Irene Colburn, Sally Atkinson and Dolores Behanna.

Firemen Fight Oil Blaze

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Firemen were using about 18,000 gallons of airlifted foamite an hour today to fight an oil refinery blaze that started with an explosion Wednesday afternoon and already has done more than a million dollars damage.

Officials of the Ingram Oil and Refining Co., located about 10 miles east of here on a marshy bank of the Mississippi River, said the fire was under partial control and could be contained if adequate supplies of the flame-smothering foam are available.

The huge refinery tanks are interconnected, however, and the entire 4 million dollar installation is threatened unless firemen continue to control the flames.

Cause of the explosion was not known.

Wednesday five refinery employes made a heroic dash into the fire area, wearing asbestos suits, and turned off a valve that was spewing gasoline onto the flames. Three of them collapsed when they came out and were hospitalized.

One employe was missing, and firm officials said they thought he may have been in the vicinity of the tank which blew up.

The fire threatened tanks contained 500,000 barrels of petroleum products, including high octane gasoline, crude oil and petroleum distillate. More than a million gallons of fuel had been consumed early today, and nine tanks had been affected.

The Hungarian Ladies Auxiliary of Pricedale had a regular weekly card party Monday at Hungarian Hall.

Naomi Sedok won in 500 while euchre winners were Sue Nagy and Millie Caputo. A special prize went to Margaret Raboci and the door prize was won by Virginia Layton.

Lunch was served by Mary Trembush, chairman, assisted by Edith Thot. Another party will be held Monday at 8 p.m.

Banquet Held by Tri-Hi-Y Group Attended by 175

The Rostraver Tri-Hi-Y Saturday held a banquet honoring past and present members at the Junior High cafeteria. A total of 175 attended.

The club, which was organized 24 years ago, has had only two counselors during that time. Mrs. Helen Mowl Melenyzer organized the group. The present counselor is Elizabeth Gess.

Flora Spiegel, a former teacher at Rostraver, was a guest and was presented a corsage. Miss Gess also received a corsage.

Lois Ahlborn, president, served as toastmaster and Jo Ann Nelson, chaplain, asked the invocation. Pantomimes were presented by Carol Ann Murin, while Joyce Lubrani and Carol Victoria were heard in a piano duet.

Gifts were presented to the following: Harriet Stoneman McMinn, for having the oldest child; Mrs. Dorothea Jones Volk, youngest child; Mrs. Pat Porter Gregor, most children; Mrs. Roberta Williams Wagoner, and Mrs. Carol Hughes Trembush, most recently married, and Mrs. Jean Williamson Grant and Mrs. Phyllis Stewart O'Donnell, traveling the greatest distance.

The club's colors, red, white and blue, were used for decorations.

The committee in charge included Carol Boltze, Joyce Bazilwich, Joyce Cunningham and Frances Kopanic.

J. I. M. Christmas Party Tomorrow

Senator Suffers Cerebral Spasm

NEW YORK (UP)—Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr., (D-Mo.) was reported in "fairly comfortable" condition today at Beekman-Downtown Hospital following a cerebral spasm.

A hospital spokesman said that the 54-year-old Senator "slept fairly well" Wednesday night. A staff physician was in constant attendance throughout the night.

Hennings collapsed at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in the federal courthouse while presiding at a lengthy public hearing of the Senate subcommittee to investigate juvenile delinquency.

Dr. Joseph Eidelsberg, who was appearing as a witness in a neighboring courtroom, diagnosed the attack as "a slight stroke" and ordered Hennings taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Latest in Trains

PARIS (UP)—France has a new self-tilting railroad car which officials claim can whip around curves at 80 miles an hour without spilling food in the diner or bothering passengers with sensitive stomachs. Unveiled in a test run Wednesday the 32-passenger experimental model tilts automatically to offset exactly the centrifugal forces that generally throws passengers toward the outside of the curve.

Methodist Church Program Planned For Christmas

Christ in Christmas is the theme selected for the annual Christmas Eve program which will be presented at 10:30 p m in the Fayette City Methodist Church.

Mrs. Read Brightwell will be in charge of the program planning. A setting of Christmas decorations will be in keeping with the theme for this candlelight service.

In addition to the Christmas Eve event, the various church organizations are carrying out ideas along the same theme The Woman's Society for Christian Service has purchased bumper strips to remind motorists of the reasons for the holiday observance. A lawn banner will also be displayed.

The Young Adult Class, with a recently purchased projector, is planning to show movies with a religious theme to the Youth Fellowship and Sunday School during December.

Women to Meet

The Woman's Department of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will meet tonight in the church social rooms. A worship, business and social program has been arranged. Meeting time is at 7:30 p. m.

New Car Costs Her Jail Term

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Mrs Jessie Smith was sentenced to 30 days in jail today because she drives a 1957 model automobile.

Mrs. Smith, convicted of assaulting a police officer, was placed on a year's probation in 1954 and ordered to pay court costs and reimburse the officer for damage to his uniform.

Haled into court today before Judge John G. Brosky, the woman again claimed she was without funds The judge asked her if she owns an automobile.

"Yes, a 1957 Buick," she replied

"Thirty days in jail," snapped Judge Brosky. "If you can maintain a 1957 model car you can afford to pay court costs."

Legion Auxiliary in Annual Christmas Program Plans

For the eleventh year, the members of the American Legion Auxiliary to the Brightwell-Daugherty Post, Fayette City, will decorate their Christmas tree with dollar bills to be used for the Pennsylvania Legion and Auxiliary Christmas gift program.

The Fayette City unit has cooperated in this program since its inception 16 years ago. The local Legion has set its goal for the year at $100.

The program committee for the state has planned to deposit with each canteen $2 to be used by each hospitalized veteran as he pleases.

The meeting tomorrow evening will be built around the Christmas theme of Giving. Mrs. George Arrow, rehabilitation chairman, will give a talk on the plans for the new year. Kitty Urban, soloist, and Donna Matthews, pianist, will entertain.

A colored movie entitled "Birth of Our Savior" will be shown and the program will be concluded with Christmas songs by Paula Jaques, accordionist, and Dolly Williams, flute.

The procession of the tree trimming will be held following the program. Christmas cards for veterans will be collected during the meeting.

A social hour will complete the special Christmas meeting. Hostesses for the affair are Mrs. Arrow, chairman, Mrs. John Traversari, Mrs. John Vargo, Mrs. Doris Breckenridge, and Mrs. Joseph Williams.

Pair Couldn't Wait for Meeting

ERIE, Pa. (UP)—Elizabeth Gallant and Timonthy Quinn, of Buffalo, N. Y., interrupted a meeting of the Harbor Creek Twp. board of supervisors Tuesday night to ask if they could be married.

Township Secretary Harry Ireland, who also is a justice of the peace, obliged with Hugh Barr, Erie Morning News reporter who was covering the meeting, serving as best man.

Germans Seeking NATO Agreement

BONN, Germany (UP)—West German authorities have submitted new proposals to seven NATO powers in an attempt to conclude a status of forces agreement which has been in negotiation for more than two years, a foreign ministry spokesman said today. The spokesman said the proposals were given to the ambassadors of the United States, Britain, France, Canada, Belgium, Denmark and The Netherlands. He said the proposals were intended to speed conclusion of an agreement which will regulate the legal and financial position of NATO troops stationed on German soil.

New Towboat Under Construction

A towboat embodying application of the most advanced principles in scientific marine design is under construction at the Neville Island shipyards of Dravo Corp. Pittsburgh.

Dravo engineers believe the 1600-horsepower vessel, being built for Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co., will be the most efficient towboat of its draft ever to operate on the inland waterways.

Hull form of the 123-foot craft has been substantially refined, particularly at the stern. Stern lines will be longer and leaner than those of most boats and stern tunnels will be broader.

Modifications also have been made in the design of the rudders, Kort nozzles, propellers and struts. Shape and location of the six rudders have been altered while the Kort nozzle shape has been refined, particularly at the bottom, for increased thrust. Struts will be located aft of the propellers instead of forward.

Greater hull rigidity has been attained by designing the superstructure as a main element of the girder of the vessel.

The new towboat, fifth in Pittsburgh Consolidation's fleet, will push barges between the company's mines on the Monongahela River and customer's plants as far down the Ohio River as Weirton, W.Va.

Of welded steel construction throughout, the boat will be powered by two diesel engines, each rated at 800 horsepower with a propeller speed of 225 RPM.

Because the vessel will operate much of the time in the Monongahela River, stainless steel plating will be used to protect the rudders, Kort nozzles and much of the aft end of the hull from acid corrosion. The twin seven-foot propellers will be solid stainless steel.

On the Monongahela, above West Elizabeth landing, the boat will push six barges loaded with 900 tons of coal each, but down river from that point, where larger locks permit larger tows, tows will consist of at least eleven loaded barges — a total load of 9900 tons.

The new vessel will be equipped with the most modern navigational aids, including radar and ship-to-shore telephone. Other features will include hydraulic steering controls and reverse reduction gears. Quarters will be provided for 17 crew members and guests.

This is the sixth towboat built by Dravo for Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal. Currently operating are three identical 108-foot diesel-powered craft, the Arkwright, the R. L. Ireland and the Mathies. The steam-driven Mongah and Pittsburgh Coal, built in 1937, were retired this year. The firm also operates a 40-foot shifting boat, the Little Alex.

Former Nazi Prisoner Takes Church Money

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A former Nazi war prisoner serving as treasurer of St. Sava's Serbian Orthodox Church cleaned out the treasury of $14,000, police said today.

Not only did Lazar Stankovich, 43, disappear with the church funds, authorities said, he left the small Southside congregation deep in debt.

Stankovich, a native of Yugoslavia who came to this country as a displaced person, disappeared on Friday while on his way to work. The shortage, however, was not discovered until late Monday when church officials checked the account at the Mellon National Bank.

Attorney Nicholas R. Sfone said the church was left about $400 in debt.

The Rev. Velimer P. Kovacevich, pastor of the church, said the bulk of the missing money—$11,000—came from sale of a church property in 1953.

Stankovich was described as a respected man.

"He was a likeable guy, good church-goer, and always took part in every social affair," Father Kovacevich said.

Harriman for Narcotics Drive

NEW YORK (UP) — Gov. Averell Harriman called on the federal government today to step up its efforts against the smuggling of narcotics into this country.

"If the federal government truly caes" about the problem, Harriman said, "let it first of all fulfill its responsibility to keep the instruments of death out of our country."

Prevention of narcotics smuggling was one of two actions Harriman suggested the federal government undertake.

The other was the proposal he made with Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania that idle military establishments be used as summer camps for teen-aged boys.

Awarded Medical Expenses

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Charles Brown, Butler, Pa., injured 10 years ago while working on a river boat, has been awarded $11,196 in medical expenses by federal Judge Wallace S Gourley

The award, entered as "maintenance and care" under maritime law, was against the Dravo Corp In a separate damage action, Dravo was cleared of negligence.

The plaintiff filed the actions against Dravo in 1948 but then disappeared until he was located by the Federal Bureau of Investigation at the direction of Judge Gourley

Brown injured his left leg while moving a 540-pound oil drum onto a river boat at Dravos Neville Island dock He was awarded $5 a day for a total of 2 238 days which excluded the time since the accident which he spent in Maine hospitals, working days, hospitalization for other causes, and four days he spent in jail for non support

Loan for Philippines

New Idea In Shoe Selling

By ALFRED LEECH

CHICAGO (UP)—A shoe store chain has hired an interior decorator to create an atmosphere that will slow its sales

In this era of sales psychology, motivational research and the quick turnover, this idea is something of a twist

But the Joseph Shoe Salons hired designer Marion Heuer to create interiors to induce the "slow sell"

'It sounded odd to me, too," Mrs. Heuer said 'But I soon got the point

"The company believes women buy shoes too hastily Nowadays they pick up hats at a 'hat bar' and they expect to buy shoes the same way"

This seemed like a twist, too The cartoons usually show a pile of shoe boxes and a harried shoe salesman at the mercy of an undecided female

Returns With Complaints

But it's not that way at all, Mrs Heuer said Instead, milady rushes into a store and asks for open-toed pumps, the same size she's wearing in a different style show entirely.

Her old shoes feel terrible after a morning's shopping, and the first new pair she tries probably feels fine So she buys them and runs off to a lunch date

'Next day she's back with the shoes and a string of complaints" Mrs Heuer said "She's probably told her friends that the shoes she bought from such - and - such hurt her feet And the store's reputation suffers"

So officers of Joseph's Salons asked Mrs Heuer to come up with a decor that would invite the customer to tary awhile

Light, Soft Cords

She decided that "unhurried luxury' and light but soft colors were the answer. othing too stimulating

'The stimulating colors spur activity, she said

For example, there's a restaurant in town which redecorated its walls in red so people wouldn't linger over lunch while other hungry customers were waiting

Mrs Heuer took the opposite tack She decorated the shoe company's Michigan Ave store in white and gold, muted with turquoise and something called avocado

Proper Cooking Of Vegetables Is Analyzed

"Properly cooked vegetables," says Dr. John Yudkin, professor of nutrition, University of London, England, "retain about three-quarters or more of their vitamin C; badly cooked vegetables may retain as little as one quarter."

It is gratifying to read that an English nutritionist is speaking out for good vegetable cookery. It is to be hoped that for the sake of good health, the English people will accept the findings. Fully as important, however — at least so it seems to those who have visited England — is the fact that if Professor Yudkin's rules for cookery are followed, the vegetables may be more appetizing when they appear on the table.

He agrees with the best American cooks that vegetables should be cooked while they are fresh and crisp, cut sufficiently small for quick cooking, but not chopped or crushed. A small amount of water and a short period of cooking are essentials. He advises the avoidance of the use of soda and of copper utensils!

Tasty Recipes

BANANA TEA BREAD

1¾ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup shortening
2-3 cug sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup mashed ripe bananas (2 to 3 bananas)

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Beat shortening until creamy in mixing bowl. Add sugar gradually and continue beating until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour mixture alternately with bananas, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Turn into a wellgreased 8-½ x 4½ x 3 inch bread pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 70 minutes or until bread is done. Yield: 1 loaf.

BROWNED BUTTER WITH ALMONDS

½ stick butter or margarine
¼ cup slivered almonds

Melt half the butter or margarine in small skillet. Add almonds, and stir over low heat until lightly browned. Add remaining butter or margarine, and heat to bubbling. Serve with broccoli or cauliflower.

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M. Barber

AHOY THERE! For luncheon or supper, kiddies will love to make—and eat — "Three Men in a Boat." Fasten a sail of cheese to the potato boat, which carries a cargo of creamed dried beef, and place the three men — mushrooms to you — on deck.

New Cook Book Is Written Especially for Children

Reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic — the three R's were once considered the basis of children's education. There can be no argument as to their continued importance. But intelligent mothers have found from their own experience that home instruction in cookery and serving will will be helpful in later life to both boys and girls.

Edith Barber

Many young women have asked me to recommend a cook book especially designed for children. The recipes must be easy to prepare and the instructions simple and complete. Preferably, every step should be illustrated and when many of the pictures are in color and have titles which will interest or amuse the children, every specification will be fulfilled.

I am pleased to report the "Betty Crocker Cook Book for Boys and Girls" supplies all such needs. There are menus and recipes for lunch and dinner at home, and special sections devoted to campfire cooking and to parties. Everything in the book was tested by 12 children, who approved the style and the art as well as the text.

It is easy to understand why a recipe called "Three Men in a Boat" will be more appealing than one called "Plain Stuffed Potato" — even when topped with mushrooms. Perhaps a boy will be even more interested in preparing this recipe than a girl. By the way, there were four boys as well as eight girls on the testing panel which made the final decision on what recipes should be included in this book. It is already on my Christmas list for young relatives of both sexes.

The following two recipes from "Betty Crocker's Cook Book for Boys and Girls."

THREE MEN IN A BOAT

Hollow out part of a baked potato so it looks like a boat. Fill the hollow with creamed dried beef. Cut a sail from a firm slice of cheese and stand upright in the boat on a toothpick. Three mushrooms on edge of potato "boat" are the "three men."

ICE CREAM CONE CAKES

Heat oven to 400 Degrees. Make batter for cupcakes as directed on any cake mix package. Pour scant ¼ cup batter into flat-bottom waffle ice cream cones, filling scant ½ full. If you fill the cones too full, they will not have a nice round top. Set on baking pan and bake 15 to 18 minutes. Cool and frost with a frosting mix and garnish with small candies.

Numerous Uses of Aluminum Foil

There is no greater conservative than the "experienced" housekeeper. Just because she's been able to feed her family well with the equipment she has, she looks with suspicion upon prophecies of greater kitchen conveniences to come.

Doubtless, the cooks who made do with the spit for meat cookery and an improvised oven over the coals for baking were sometimes loath to accept that new invention, the wood range, and, later anthracite or bituminous coal as a fuel. They were certain the oven of a gas stove would not be as satisfactory as that of a coal range, and when the electric range followed, they compared it at first unfavorably to the gas stove to which they had become accustomed.

And now comes that latest invention, electronic cookery. This is in the future for the home kitchen, as the equipment is too expensive at the present time for general use. It has been found of economic value in some restaurants and hotels where reducing cooking time is important. For instance, a cake will bake in six minutes!

In the meantime, cooks are making use of many conveniences unknown a few years ago. An example of this is the use of heavy aluminum foil which, from being merely an attractive and effective wrapping, now often replaces cooky sheets and certain other oven utensils. It is commonly used gondola-style for the semi-wrapping of roasts and poultry. Any type of shallow pan with even a low edge may be used. Vegetables may be sealed in foil before baking.

FOIL - COOKED VEGETABLES

Place vegetables in center of a 14-inch square of heavy foil. Season with salt, pepper and butter or margarine. Bring up lengthwise sides of the foil, and seal together by making two folds toward center of packet. Place on shallow baking pan and cooky sheet and bake. Allow about ten minutes longer than if vegetables were cooked on top of the stove. Test for doneness by piercing through foil.

ROASTING MEATS IN FOIL

Tear off sheet of heavy foil twice the length of the meat. Fold the long edges of foil up to form sides. Then draw the end corners together with the foil pulled inward to the meat. Double-fold corners to make a secure seal and handles by which the gondola may be lifted. Place on shallow baking pan or cooky sheet to roast, according to standard recipes.

QUICK MEAL

Broiled lamb chops, potatoes with chives, broiled tomatoes, celery and nut salad, cream puffs (purchased), Coffee.

ORDER OF PREPARATION

Prepare potatoes and cook; light broiler; line broiler pan with foil; broil chops; prepare tomatoes; turn chops and broil tomatoes; prepare salad; drain and dress potatoes; make coffee.

BANANA WALDORF SALAD

- diced, unpeeled red apple
½ cup diced celery
½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 sliced ripe bananas
Crisp lettuce and salad greens
Walnut or pecan halves

Mix together apple, celery, mayonnaise or other salad dressing. Lightly add banana slices. Arrange on lettuce. Garnish with greens and nuts. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Congressmen Predict No Tax Cut Next Year

NEW YORK (UP)—Two "conservative" Democratic and two Republican congressmen agreed today there will be no general tax cut next year although there may be some 'adjustments.'

They also expressed the hope that some form of curb on organized labor may be enacted next year.

Their off - the - cuff comments were drawn out by four newsmen in a question and answer panel at the first day session of the 62nd Congress of American Industry.

The Congress sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers, is being attended by more than 3,000 business leaders from across the country.

Unwise to Cut Taxes

In reply to a question by Lyle C. Wilson, United Press vice president and Washington manager the congressmen—Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.), Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio), and Rep. Graham A. Barden (D-N.C.)—agreed it would be unwise to reduce taxes while government spending is on the rise.

Potter said all of us are in politics and would like to say there will be a tax reduction, but we can't say so' until the government can afford it. He said the people don't want deficit spending.

Other questioners at the panel were C. Norman Stabler, financial columnist of the New York Herald Tribune, Alfred J. Ball, editor of the Woodhaven, (L.I.), N.Y., Leader-Observer, and Ray Henle of the National Broadcasting Co.

Barden, chairman of the House Labor Committee, was asked whether his committee would report favorably to the House any legislation that would curb the activities of organized labor.

The congressman replied, "I hardly know how to guess what the committee will do. It is my hope that they will." Asked whether the committee's membership was weighted in favor of organized labor, Barden said yes, but he didn't agree with these other members.

Stabler asked the congressmen for their comments on possibilities of changing the capital gains tax. Brown replied that that was one of the questions being studied by the House ways and means subcommittee, which originates all tax legislation.

"Hell of a Fix"

Henle asked the Republican congressmen "What is happening to the Republican Party?" Brown also took up the cudgels on this one saying 'down in southern Ohio we say it is in a hell of a fix."

New Corning Material Now Being Used in Guided Missile Noses

A new material has been added to the lexicon of the atomic and space age.

It is ceramics, an impressive term for a form of baked clay.

One of the leaders in the ceramic field is the Corning Glass Works. Its contribution is a revolutionary basic material known commercially as "pyroceram."

In the weeks ahead, pyroceram will probably become a familiar word. It is the material now being used as nose cones in guided missiles.

One of the important qualities of the Corning material is that it remains rigid even at extreme temperatures. Consequently pyroceram is able to withstand the tremendous friction involved in missile flight.

The armed forces have already fired several pyroceram missile cones into outer space. These cones have returned to earth, apparently none-the-worse for wear.

(Drew Pearson's column today on Page 4 discusses the troubles Dr. Edward U. Condon, Corning scientist, had with Richard Nixon when Nixon was a U. S. Senator. Condon is credited with being the pioneer of the missile nose cones.)

Corning Development

This technical achievement was emphasized recently by President Eisenhower during his first telecast on science.

Pyroceram was developed at the Corning Glass Works laboratory in Corning, N. Y., under the direction of Dr. Edward Condon. The material was first revealed to the public on May 25, 1957.

Actually pyroceran is not one material, but an entire class. Already Corning has developed 400 different kinds with widely varying properties.

Pyoceram starts out as glass and is formed the way most other glasses are. But it goes through a special process of heat-treating. Because of a unique combination of ingredients in the original glass formula, heat changes the actual molecular structure of the glass into pyroceram — a material that's extremely hard, lightweight and non-porous.

As yet, no pyroceram has been produced at Corning's Charleroi plant. However the firm claims the new material has a wide variety of uses which may eventually revolutionize the industry.

Pyroceram is only one of several ceramic materials now being produced commercially.

Pottery Art Advances

This ancient art of pottery fits into the atomic age with almost ironic ease. Space travel involves searing temperatures and ceramics can stand them better than other materials.

The Fitch Survey describes how ceramics are used as atomic reactor shields, in atomic fuels, for coating of earth satellites, in rocket nozzles, and in parts of intercontinental ballistics missiles.

Ceramics in addition to their heat resistance are highly resistant to corrosion. But they do have bad features, mainly their tendency to shatter and their inability to bend.

Combines With Metals

The shattering tendency is overcome by combining ceramics with metals to form what are called cermats. And some success is reported in making compounds of ceramics that will bend.

How does ceramics fit into stock market news? As in all the developments in nuclear energy, missiles and the other new things in the world, many companies are involved in the making and refining of ceramics for particular jobs in the space age.

Minnesota Mining and General Electric have programs for ceramic fuel development, according to Fitch.

Gladding, McBean & Co. recently announced it has completed the first ten prototype high - alumina ceramic radomes under an Air Force development contract.

Bettinger Corp. has developed ceramic coatings that can withstand temperatures of 2500 degrees fahrenheit and up. Avco Manufacturing is reported testing ceramics on ICBM work.

Fiber Developed

Babcock & Wilcox has produced "kaowool," a ceramic fiber similar to glass wool. The Carborundum Co. makes "fibefrax" Dow Chemical's magnesium oxide is said to be the most bendable ceramic so far found.

As industry and science developed ceramics for space and general atomic use, new uses also may be made of ceramics in other industries. These include electronic devices used in automation, various types of insulation, and myriad others—an age-old industry gone modern.

Nun Is Buried

KAMPALA, Uganda (UP)—Franciscan nun "Mama Kevin," who died recently in Boston, Mass., has been buried near Kampala in the grounds of the convent she founded. Baganda tribesmen, who loved the gentle nun, raised a fund to bring her body from Boston where she retired after 50 years of work among Uganda Africans.

Approximately six-sevenths of Greenland is capped by an ice mass up to a mile and a half thick.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Henry G. Campbell, who departed this life five years ago today, December 5, 1952
Though absent he is always near,
Still loved, still missed, still very dear;
Time takes away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf
Eternal rest grant unto him, dear Lord
And let Perpetual Light shine upon him.
His devoted Wife, Son and Grandson

LEGAL NOTICE

SALE OF BONDS
CITY OF MONESSEN
PENNSYLVANIA
$225,000.00

Sealed bids will be received by the City of Monessen, Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, at the City Building, Monessen, Pennsylvania, until 10:00 o'clock A. M., E.S.T. and will be opened immediately thereafter, on Wednesday, January 8th, 1958, for the purchase of $225,000.00 par value general obligation coupon bonds of the City. The bonds are of the denomination of $1,000.00 each, registrable as to principal only, dated January 1, 1958, and mature in the order of their number as follows: — Fifteen bonds ($15,000.00) on July first of the years 1959 to 1973 inclusive, with interest payable January first and July first, in each year. The principal and interest are payable without deduction for any taxes (except gift, succession or inheritance taxes), levied pursuant to any present or future law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Each bid shall specify in a multiple of one-eighth of one per cent a single rate of interest which the bonds are to bear and shall be accompanied by cash or a certified or cashier's or treasurer's check drawn to the order of the City of Monessen in the sum of $4,500.00 as security for the performance of such bid.

Bids should be addressed to Francis H. Crum, City Clerk, City Building, Monessen, Pennsylvania and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope sufficiently labeled to indicate that it is a bid for these bonds

The bonds will be sold to the highest responsible bidder subject to approval of the authorizing proceedings by the Department of Internal Affairs of Pennsylvania. No bid for less than par and accrued interest or for less than all of the bonds will be accepted.

The purchaser will receive without charge the opinion of Messrs Burgwin, Ruffin, Perry & Pohl of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, that the bonds are valid, general obligations of the City, payable from ad valorem taxes levied on all taxable real property within the City without limitation of rate or amount. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

Straw That Broke . . .

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Two names on his passport, two marriages to his wife under his legal and professional name and just plain legal confusion was too much for Leif Erickson. The 46-year-old actor, declaring that the name was the thing, appeared in court Tuesday to have his legal name of Wychffe Anderson changed to Erickson.

Eastern Snowstorm Moves Out to Sea; Leaves Freezing Air

By UNITED PRESS

An eastern storm that spewed "one of the worst snowstorms in recent years" moved out to sea today, trailing behind it a mass of cold air that plunged temperatures below freezing in Georgia and Alabama.

Vast digging-out programs extended from New England to Virginia where the driving snowstorm deposited more than a foot of snow in some spots Wednesday, crippling traffic along the Atlantic Seaboard, and causing at least 20 deaths in traffic wrecks blamed on the storm.

Blustering eastward from its spawning ground in the Midwest, the storm raked Philadelphia with 24-hour blinding flurries, then peeled off to the north and south where it heaped heavy deposits on New York and Washington, D. C.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said Maryland weathered one of its "worst snowstorms in recent years," with as much as 10 inches dumped on a Baltimore suburb.

New York's Public Transportation System groaned under the added weight of workers who crowded subways and buses; homebound workers in Philadelphia were stranded for more than an hour; a streetcar workers' strike in Pittsburgh added to that city's woes.

The cold influence of the storm was felt as far south as Florida, and temperatures dropped 23 degrees in Hatteras, N. C.

Across the continent, rains continued down the Pacific Coast splashing points from Washington to Southern California with half-inch deposits and at some points nearly an inch.

Warmer temperatures were reported early today in most areas between the Rockies and the Mississippi River, and in the Central Plateau region. An exception was central North Dakota where local cooling occurred.

Remnants of Wednesday's storm will continue to pelt southern New England with snow until about noon when the storm's immediate influence will no longer be felt. Except for a few snow flurries in the Great Lakes area, it will be fair to partly cloudy from the Mississippi River to the Atlantic Coast.

'Silent Voice' In Satellite To Carry Waves

WASHINGTON (UP) — America's first test satellite will have a "silent voice."

Its two radio transmitters will beam carrier waves back to earth The waves will be soundless, like the beam of a standard radio station when it is not broadcasting.

A Naval Research Laboratory spokesman said minitrack listeners on the ground will be able to pick up information from the sphere's transmitters only by bouncing sound from an oscillator against the incoming beams.

Here's the way he said it will work:

The solar battery powered transmitter on the skin of the satellite will broadcast on 108.030 megacycles. The mercury battery powered transmitter inside will broadcast on 108 megacycles.

The oscillator will be injected from the earth along a 108.010 megacycle beam sandwiched in between.

Variations in the sphere's transmissions will be recorded in the beat of the oscillator. The variations will then be translated into temperature readings and other data.

Bathing the Thing

CONNERSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Mrs. Ruth Wilson, 39, said she is innocent of forgery charges but pleaded guilty in order to be transferred to Indiana women's prison. The state prison has a bathtub, she said, the county jail doesn't.

Hearing Too Fast Dangerous

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Do you have difficulty with your hearing? Well, your trouble may be that you hear too fast.

Probably at least 10,000,000 Americans are hard of hearing. About 12 per cent of them, according to a Defense Department survey, find their difficulties worsened by rapidity of speech.

In other words, they hear too fast because they hear at the same rate the words are spoken.

It seems like an insurmountable problem, doesn't it? But it probably isn't. In fact a major goal of current research to benefit the hard-of-hearing is to develop a method of controlling the speed at which persons hear.

Under the proper laboratory conditions, we can now regulate the rate at which sound reaches the ear. Just how we can incorporate a sound-spacing device into something as small as a hearing aid is the big problem.

Hearing aids that merely augment the volume of sound do not completely solve the probelm of persons who find it difficult to discriminate words if they are spoken too rapidly.

This particular difficulty becomes more common among those who are hard of hearing as they grow older. It is especially difficult to distinguish rapidly spoken words when the speaker is a woman.

What we need is a hearing aid that will slow the rate at which speech reaches the ear. Experts say this very thing may be the next major improvement in the hearing field.

Of course, another improvement which definitely will come about in the not-too-distant future is more use of binaural (both ears) hearing. One manufacturer recently introduced a hearing aid, incorporated in a pair of eyeglasses, which provides hearing for both ears.

It probably won't be too long until we may have perfected hearing aids which fit entirely in the ear.

Question and Answer

J.C.: I have a heart murmur. Is this seriou and will it affect my having children?

Answer: Whether or not a heart murmur is serious depends upon its type and cause and the severity with which it impedes the normal functioning of the heart. A physician is best able to determine the extent of your disability due to the murmur.

Books Banned

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—The best-selling novels "Peyton Place" and "The Revolt of Mamie Stover" were banned Tuesday by the city Board of Review. Both books, written by Grace Metalous and William Bradford Huie, were ruled obscene and unfit for sale here by the board.

Joan Davis Tackles Most Difficult Task

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Comedienne Joan Davis is tackling the most difficult task in show business — a television comeback.

Rubber-faced Joan has signed to star in a new weekly series as the first woman to train and condition for a flight to the moon. Reaching the moon may prove easier than negotiating the rocky comeback trail.

Joan Davis

Wally Cox couldn't get off the ground when he attempted to get back on the video beam via "Hiram Holliday." It folded as ignominiously as "Mr. Peepers." Imogene Coca nose-dived when she left Sid Caesar for a show of her own.

This season Joan Caulfield, who disappeared along with "My Favorite Husband," has a wobbly rating in "Sally."

Arden Has Trouble

Eve Arden also is trying to recapture an audience with "The Eve Arden Show," which hasn't come close to the success of "Our Miss Brooks."

Actors seem to fare better than actresses in the comeback department, as evidenced by Richard Boone's jump from doctor in "Medic" to gun-slinger in "Have Gun, Will Travel."

Joan is optimistic despite the odds.

It's been three years since she filmed the last of her old series, "I Married Joan." Betimes she sat quietly in her Bel-Air mansion waiting for the right property to come along.

"This is it," she says hopefully. "The first comedy-science fiction show in TV. The humor is based on situations involving me with actual scientific experiments.

Slapstick Helped Joan

"It may get a little rough on me physically, but I'm used to that from my slapstick experiences in the past.

"Space travel and Sputniks are in the news, and our show (NBC) should appeal to all groups and sexes. Throughout the series I'll be accompanied by psychologists, anthropologists and the like, who record my reactions to different and challenging situations."

Joan, whose slender figure belies her grandmotherhood, is far prettier off screen than on. When she's not making jokes the gal looks more like a leading lady than a laugh provoker.

"I realize I'm in for a rough time," she concluded. "It's always tough to grind out 39 shows in a season. But I've got faith in this one and the energy to make it a hit."

Jazz to Have Day On Sunday

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (UP) — This Sunday le Jazz Hot meets up with Le Television cold.

TV, a medium that has turned a fairly frigid shoulder to jazz in the past, will provide a one-hour showcase for such diverse practitioners of the craft as Billie Holliday, Count Basie, Gerry Mulligan, Red Allen, Jimmy Giuffre, Coleman Hawkins and Lester Young.

The event, scheduled for explosion on CBS-TV's "The Seven Lively Arts," stems from the brain of Robert Herridge, Jazz buff, guitarist and producer of the show.

"There have been some attempts on TV to work with jazz," said Herridge today. "Leonard Bernstein, for example, did an awfully good job on 'Omnibus.'

New TV Approach

"But we want to take an approach different from any other attempted on TV. We want to offer jazz for itself, an as experience in sound. We want to steer clear of the gimmicks and camera techniques that have burdened its presentation in the past."

"We're going to give these guys a bare stage," he explained. "There'll be nothing to detract from the music. In place of a narrator, we're planning to use tape recordings we made with some of the musicians in which they talk about jazz and how they came to it. We'll work mostly with the blues, which we all feel is a root form of jazz."

Herridge agrees that his chief problem will be the meshing of jazz, an art that works through the ear, with TV, a medium that works primarily through the eye.

"I've been to jazz concerts myself and I know how deadly they can become after you've watched for an hour or so," said Herridge. "But we're going to use our cameras to get away from that feeling of sitting in the 20th row.

Viewers In Act

"Instead, we want to give viewers the feeling that they're sitting right inside the group — right between Count Basie and Coleman Hawkins."

Jazz has been neglected by TV, feels Herridge, because the men who plan TV shows don't know how popular it is. "I don't think that Lawrence Welk represents American music—despite the fact a lot of people may like him — as much as our own jazz does. Jazz has a communication and beat that's basic, it gets through to people," he said.

'Listening to a woman like Billie Holiday sing is like watching her make love. Watch a man in the stress of a solo and you see right into him. It's dramatic as any script or as exciting as watching the hands of Frank Costello or someone in an isolation booth."
